

THIRD EDITION

the information society
a study of continuity and change

Suranaree University of Technology

31051000622064

JOHN FEATHER

CONTENTS

PREFACE TO THE THIRD EDITION / ix

INTRODUCTION / I

The information society: myth and reality

1 THE HISTORICAL DIMENSION / 11

/ From script to print

The origins of writing / 11

The alphabet / 15

Images, sounds and numbers / 18

The first media / 19

The development of the book / 22

Printing: the first communications revolution / 24

The trade in books / 27

2 THE HISTORICAL DIMENSION / 31

2 Mass media and new technology

The pictorial image / 31

The recording and transmission of sound / 32

Mass media: radio and cinema / 34

Television / 36

Computers: the second communications revolution / 38

3 THE ECONOMIC DIMENSION / 47

1 The information market-place

The publishing industry: a paradigm of information transfer / 47

Authors and publishers / 48

The diversity of publishing / 54

New directions in publishing / 58

The impact of computers / 62

The interdependent media: convergence and change / 66

The market: definition and size / 71

Fragmentation or competition? / 75

4 THE ECONOMIC DIMENSION / 78

2 Access to information

The prices of books and the cost of broadcasts / 79

The cost of libraries / 83

Public good or private profit? / 85

Electronic communications: access and costs / 86

Networks: an electronic democracy? / 90

The world wide web / 94

Electronic publishing: towards a new paradigm? / 97

The cost of access: issues and problems / 105

5 THE POLITICAL DIMENSION / 110

1 Information rich and information poor

The value of information / 110

Information in developing countries: an issue defined / 113

Wealth and poverty: information and economic development / 119

Information delivery systems: some contrasts / 121

North and south: the world publishing industry / 125

Eastern Europe: a different poverty? / 128

The limits of wealth: information poverty in the West / 130

- 6 THE POLITICAL DIMENSION / 135
- 2 Information, the state and the citizen
- The role of the state: an introduction / 135
 - The role of the state: the protection of intellectual property / 136
 - The role of the state: data protection and personal privacy / 145
 - The role of the state: freedom of information / 150
 - The role of the state: censorship / 158
 - Contemporary dilemmas: the issues redefined / 163
- 7 THE INFORMATION PROFESSION / 171
- The information profession: a domain delineated / 171
 - The role of the information professional / 174
 - The work of the information professional / 177
 - Librarians and libraries: archetypes in transition / 181
 - From archivist to records manager / 189
 - Information managers / 192
- AFTERWORD / 197
- An information society?*
- A NOTE ON FURTHER READING / 201
- INDEX / 205