

a consumer's guide to

efood

from green genes
to red herrings

Summit University of Technology

31051000655782

Alan McHughen

Contents

	Introduction: table d'hôte or à la carte?	1
1	Hors-d'œuvres and entrées	7
2	Cooking school primer: molecular genetics for everyone	17
3	Home cooking! DIY guide to genetic engineering	46
4	Salad days? Conventional and GM foods	61
5	Food: the offal truth	85
6	The issues—where's the beef?	104
7	Figure it out	129
8	'More wine, sir?': the role of science in regulation	136
9	Not on the table: the really scary stuff	160
10	'Waiter, what do you recommend?': who's serving my best interests?	170
11	More small fry and red herrings	182
12	'Waiter, I can't understand the menu': labelling problems	201
13	'Waiter, can't I have a GM-free meal?'	230
14	'The chef does not share his recipes': intellectual property and GM technology	243
15	Just desserts	251
16	Post-prandial delights: some resources	265
	Glossary and abbreviations	269
	Index	271