

the academic library

PETER BROPHY

Contents

Preface ix

1 The higher education context 1

- Introduction 1; • The development of academic institutions: a brief overview 2; • The ancient universities 3;
- University expansion in the 19th century 4; • Popular education: the development of the mechanics' institutes 5; • The Robbins Report and the 'new universities' 6;
- The Open University 7; • The creation of the 'binary' system 7; • Resource constraint and expansion: the creation of a single sector 8; • New directions: the Dearing Review 10; • The funding and governance of higher education in the UK 11; • Teaching and learning 13;
- Research 16; • The quality of higher education 17;
- Further education and the Kennedy Report 19;
- Lifelong learning 19; • Conclusion 22; • References 22; • Further reading 23

2 The history of higher education libraries 24

- Introduction 24; • Academic libraries in pre-modern times 24; • The 19th century 26; • The early 20th century 27; • The Parry Report 28; • Expansion and consolidation: from Parry to Atkinson 29; • The Follett Report 30; • Beyond Follett 36; • The Anderson Report 37; • Conclusion 39; • References 39; • Further reading 40

3 The library in the institution 41

- Introduction 41; • Perceptions of 'libraries' 41; • The purpose of a library 42; • Hybrid libraries 46; • Library services 47; • Information strategies 49; • Convergence 50; • Library cooperation 52; • Conclusion 53; • References 53; • Further reading 54

4 Users of the academic library 55

- Introduction 55; • Who are the users? 56; • Undergraduate students 58; • Postgraduate students 60; • Research students and staff 61; • Academic staff 61; • External readers 62; • Distance learners 63; • Users with special needs 64; • Measuring user satisfaction 65; • Information skills 66; • Conclusion 68; • References 69; • Further reading 69

5 The impacts and opportunities of information and communications technologies 70

- Introduction 70; • Digital content 71; • The infrastructure for information delivery 72; • The Follett Report 73; • The Electronic Libraries Programme 75; • Higher education data services 81; • The Distributed National Electronic Resource 86; • Working together: the need for ICT standards 88; • Conclusion 88; • References 89; • Further reading 89

6 Human resources 91

- Introduction 91; • The impact of electronic libraries on staff 94; • Links with academic departments 95; • Staff training and development 96; • Staff appraisal 97; • Conclusion 98; • References 99; • Further reading 99

7 Resource management 100

- Introduction 100; • Setting budgets: capital 101; • Setting budgets: revenue 101; • Managing budgets

- 103; • Financial regulations 106; • Conclusion 108;
- References 108; • Further reading 109

8 Collection and access management and the organization of resources 110

- Introduction 110; • Collection management 111;
- Cataloguing and metadata 113; • Stock selection 114;
- Types of material 115; • Collection evaluation 118;
- Preservation and conservation 118; • Weeding and
- relegation 121; • Conclusion 122; • References 122;
- Further reading 122

9 The academic library building 124

- Introduction 124; • Approaches to library design 125;
- Information technology 128; • Noise 129;
- Designing reading areas 130; • Signs and guides 131;
- Specialized buildings 131; • Conclusion 132;
- References 133; • Further reading 133

10 Library systems 134

- Introduction 134; • The development of academic
- library systems 135; • Academic library management
- systems 136; • The IT systems strategic plan 144;
- The system specification 146; • System procurement
- 147; • System implementation 148; • Using IT to
- deliver services 148; • Conclusion 152; • References
- 153; • Further reading 153

11 Services 154

- Introduction 154; • Study: the learning environment
- 154; • Reference and enquiry services 155; • Access to
- information 157; • Subject-based services 158;
- Archival and special collections 159; • Users with spe-
- cial needs 160; • Conclusion 163; • Further reading
- 163

12 Management 165

- Introduction 165; • Planning 167; • The management of change 169; • Management style 171; • Performance assessment 171; • Quality management 174;
- Conclusion 176; • References 177; • Further reading 178

13 Professional issues 179

- Introduction 179; • SCONUL 180; • Professional associations 181; • Open access and the issue of censorship 183; • Confidentiality, privacy and data protection 184; • Copyright 185; • Plagiarism 186;
- Responsibilities to future generations 187;
- Conclusion 187; • References 188; • Further reading 188

14 The academic library of the future 189

- Introduction 189; • Technological change: information resources 189; • Technological change: delivery systems 191; • Intellectual property rights 193; • The virtual university 194; • Lifelong learning 196; • Globalization and regionalization 197; • Conclusion 198; • Further reading 199

Acronyms 201

Index 208