CASES ON GLOBAL E-LEARNING PRACTICES

SUCCESSES AND PITFALLS

RAMESH C. SHARMA
& SANJAYA MISHRA

Cases on Global E-Learning Practices:
Successes and Pitfalls

Table of Contents

Preface vii

Introduction: Global E-Learning Practices: An Introduction 1
Ramesh C. Sharma, Indira Gandhi National Open University, New Delhi, India
Sanjaya Mishra, Indira Gandhi National Open University, New Delhi, India

Section I:
Cases on Completely Online Learning Systems

Chapter I
Online Learning with the Use of WebCT Vista 13
Alina M. Zapalska, U.S. Coast Guard Academy, USA
Dallas Brozik, Marshall University, Huntington, USA

Chapter II
Combining Synchronous and Asynchronous Distance Learning for Adult Training in Military Environments 22
Ilias Maglogiannis, University of the Aegean, Greece
Kostas Karpouzis, National Technical University of Athens, Greece

Chapter III
A Case Study on Education Networks and Brokerage 35
Gunnar Martin, German Research Center for Artificial Intelligence, Germany
Oliver Bohl, University of Kassel, Germany
August-Wilhelm Scheer, German Research Center for Artificial Intelligence, Germany
Udo Winand, University of Kassel, Germany

Chapter IV
Transitioning to E-Learning: Teaching the Teachers 52
Carmen Gonzales, New Mexico State University, USA
Susan Bussmann, New Mexico State University, USA
Bethany Bovard, New Mexico State University, USA
Julia Parra, New Mexico State University, USA

Chapter V
Using E-Learning to Globalize a Teacher Education Program 73
Hilary Wilder, William Paterson University, USA

Chapter VI
Delivery of a Social Science Online Program in India 82
Shobhita Jain, Indira Gandhi National Open University, New Delhi, India

Chapter VII
Introducing Integrated E-Portfolio across Courses in a Postgraduate Program in Distance and Online Education 95
Madhumita Bhattacharya, Massey University, New Zealand

Chapter VIII
The Mediated Action of Educational Reform: An Inquiry into Collaborative Online Professional Development 108
Donna L. Russell, University of Missouri - Kansas City, USA

Chapter IX
VIPER: Evaluation of an Integrated Group VoiceIP Software Application for Teaching and Learning in Higher Education 123
John Beaumont-Kerridge, University of Luton Business School, UK

Chapter X
Investigating Patterns of Cognitive and Interactive Acts in an Online Student Cooperative Program 135
Lucio Teles, University of Brasilia, Brazil
Nancy Johnston, Simon Fraser University, Canada

Section II:
Cases on Blended Online Learning Systems

Chapter XI
Learning Sport Management through Interaction with the Real World 150
Alistair Inglis, Victoria University, Australia
Matthew Nicholson, La Trobe University, Australia
Clare Hanlon, Victoria University, Australia

Chapter XII
Experimentation and Challenge: Online Criminology at the University of Bologna 161
Raffaella Sette, University of Bologna, Italy

Chapter XIII
Learning Computer Science over the Web: The ViSCoS Odyssey 176
Jarkko Suhonen, University of Joensuu, Finland
Erkki Sutinen, University of Joensuu, Finland

Chapter XIV
Fiji Implements Blended E-Learning as Appropriate Flexible Learning 189
Elspeth McKay, RMIT University, School of Business Information Technology, Australia

Chapter XV
Project-Based Learning in Chemical Engineering Education Using Distance Education Tools 202
Katia Tannous, State University of Campinas, Brazil

Chapter XVI
The "Pastoral" in Virtual Space: A Tale of Two Systems and How E-Learning Practitioners Re-Make Them 218
Mary Griffiths, University of Waikato, New Zealand
Michael Griffiths, Independent Researcher, New Zealand

Chapter XVII
Using Scenario-Based Learning for E-Learning in Vocational Education 232
K. C. Chu, Hong Kong Institute of Vocational Education (Tsing Yi), Hong Kong

Chapter XVIII
An E-Workshop Model for Teacher Training 247
Yan Hanbing, East China Normal University, Shanghai, China
Zhu Zhiting, East China Normal University, Shanghai, China

Section III:
Cases on Resource-Based Online Learning System

Chapter XIX
Creating a Multimedia Instructional Product for Medical School Students 261
Mitchell Weisburgh, Academic Business Advisors, LLC, USA

Chapter XX
Hard Fun: A Case Study on a Community Problem Solving Learning Resource 276
Colette Wanless-Sobel, Inver Hills Community College, USA

Chapter XXI
ESPORT Demonstration Project, Canada 293
Patrick J. Fahy, Athabasca University, Canada
Patrick Cummins, CEP Consulting, Canada

Chapter XXII
EBS E-Learning and Social Integrity 306
Byung Ro Lim, Kyung Hee University, South Korea

Chapter XXIII
Case Studies on Learners and Instructors in an E-Learning Ecosystem 320
Vive Kumar, Simon Fraser University, Canada
Chris Groeneboer, Simon Fraser University, Canada
Stephanie Chu, Simon Fraser University, Canada
Dianne Jamieson-Noel, Simon Fraser University, Canada
Cindy Xin, Simon Fraser University, Canada

Conclusion: E-Learning Best Practices and Lessons Learned: A Summary..... 333
Sanjaya Mishra, Indira Gandhi National Open University, New Delhi, India
Ramesh C. Sharma, Indira Gandhi National Open University, New Delhi, India

Appendix..... 338

About the Authors 341

Index 352