

The Chartered
Institute of Marketing

PROFESSIONAL

Malcolm McDonald
Beth Rogers

Key Account Management

Learning from supplier and customer perspectives

Contents

Foreword	ix
Preface	xi
Acknowledgements	xiii
Before you read this book!	xv
1 The origins of key account management	1
Introduction	1
The decision-making unit	1
Relationship marketing	2
The rise of key account management	2
The purpose of this book	6
2 The evolution of key account relationships	8
Introduction	8
Relevance of the stages of the relational development model	8
Analysing the potential for partnership/synergy	23
Summary	27
3 Key account planning in the context of strategic marketing planning	28
Introduction	28
Marketing planning myths	28
Operational problems resulting from the forecasting and budgeting approach	30
How can these problems be overcome?	32
The strategic marketing planning process	33
What is a marketing audit?	35
Why is there a need for an audit?	36
The form of the audit	36

When should the audit be carried out?	36
Who should carry out the audit?	38
What happens to the results of the audit?	38
The one-year marketing plan and budget	43
Marketing planning systems	44
The results of planning	45
Positioning of marketing planning	47
The position of key account planning in the cycle	49
The position of key account planning in strategic marketing planning	50
4 Identifying and targeting key accounts	52
Introduction	52
Market segmentation	52
Market mapping	53
Leverage points	58
Who buys and what they buy	59
Why they buy	62
Bringing it all together	63
Why market segmentation is vital in planning	65
Selecting and targeting market segments	66
Setting marketing objectives and strategies	78
Defining and selecting target key accounts	81
5 Key account planning	85
Introduction	85
Step 4 Client's objectives analysis	87
Step 5 Client's annual report summary and financial analysis	89
Step 6 Client's internal value chain analysis	91
Step 7 The customer's buying process	95
Step 8 Your sales history with the client	102
Step 9 Competitive comparison and competitor strategy	103
Next steps	105
The strategic marketing plan for key accounts	106
Action programme and account review	110
Final thoughts	111
6 The role and skills of the key account manager	112
Introduction	112
The role of the key account manager – evolving with the supplier/customer relationship	113
Development of key account management skills	119
Status and reward	127
Developing people within key account teams	130
Conclusion	131

7 Positioning key account activity	132
Introduction	132
Historical precedents	132
Reporting lines within companies	135
Matrix management	136
The interrelationship of key account management with general marketing	137
The global/local challenge for key account management	138
Building key account teams	142
Cross-boundary teams	144
Future organizational structures	146
Conclusion	146
8 The future of key account management	148
The future evolution of key account management	148
The business environment for key account management	155
Customer drivers	162
What could stop the trend towards value management?	164
Strategies for selling companies	166
Summary	168
Mini-cases	171
Introduction	171
Case 1 – Smith and Jones Systems plc	171
Case 2 – Excellent Process Products	173
Case 3 – All Components plc	174
Case 4 – Punch Financial Services	175
Case 5 – Well & West plc	177
Case 6 – Workwise Uniforms	178
Case 7 – Jellox SA	179
Case 8 – HighRisk Products Limited	179
Case 9 – 234 Services (UK) Limited	181
Case 10 – XYZ Global	182
Case 11 – Étoile Consulting	183
Case 12 – Contract Employees Limited	183
Case 13 – Components GmbH	184
Bibliography	187
Now that you have read this book!	189
Index	191