

Global Compensation Foundations and perspectives

EDITED BY
LUIS R. GOMEZ-MEJIA AND STEVE WERNER

Contents

List of illustrations	xiii
Notes on contributors	xiv
Foreword	xvii
Preface	xix
Acknowledgments	xxi
SECTION 1
Foundational concepts	1
1 The influence of institutional and cultural factors on compensation practices around the world	3
GREGORIO SÁNCHEZ MARÍN
Compensation in a global context	4
Institutional factors and compensation design	7
Cultural factors and compensation design	11
Conclusions	15
2 National differences in compensation: the influence of the institutional and cultural context	18
GREGORIO SÁNCHEZ MARÍN
Compensation in Europe: Spain and Germany	18
Compensation in the USA and Mexico	21
Compensation in Asia: Japan and China	24
Conclusions	26
3 Universal and national norms for Organizational Compensation Ethics: using severance pay as an illustration	29
EDILBERTO (ED) MONTEMAYOR
Levels of analysis in Business Ethics	30
A hierarchy of norms for Organizational Compensation Ethics	31
The investment nature of employment relationships	33
Corporate Governance and universal norms for Organizational Compensation Ethics	34
Universal and national norms regarding severance pay	35
Conclusions	38

4	Performance measurement issues, incentive application and globalization MONICA FRANCO-SANTOS Performance measurement bedrock issues 41 Theoretical background: agency theory 44 Key characteristics of performance measures: lessons from agency theory 45 The impact of using performance measures for incentive purposes 48 Globalization and the use of incentives 51 Conclusions 52	41
5	Contracting for success in the era of globalization: aligning the supply chain manager's compensation contract with the company's supply chain strategy BJÖRN CLAES Background 58 Theoretical framework 59 Discussion 67 Concluding remarks 69	57
6	Incentives to stimulate innovation in a global context MARIANNA MAKRI Home base exploration vs exploitation strategies 73 Managing global R&D 74 Incentives for global R&D 76 Institutional environment 77 National culture 79 The challenge of emerging markets 81 Concluding remarks 82	72
7	Executive compensation in an international context: the role of informal and formal institutions KATALIN TAKACS HAYNES Dimensions of the institutional environment influencing CEO pay 87 Discussion and implications 95	86
8	Shareholders' value maximization and stakeholders' interest: is CEO long-term compensation the answer? CARMELO CENNAMO The instrumental stakeholder model 101 SM and the (mis)alignment effects of long-term compensation 104 On the cross-national differences of governance and other institutional systems 107 Conclusion 110	100
9	A global perspective on executive compensation PASCUAL BERRONE AND JORDAN OTTEN The problems of the classical approach to executive compensation 114 Managerial discretion and executive pay setting practices: the individual level 115	113

Corporate purpose and board of directors: the organizational level	117
Executive pay practices and national contexts: the institutional level	120
Discussion and conclusion	122

SECTION 2

Global applications	129
10 The global convergence of compensation practices	131
CHARLES H. FAY
The convergence argument	131
The non-convergence argument	133
Compensation and convergence	134
Summary	139
11 Compensation and national culture	142
BARRY GERHART
Definition and measurement of national culture	143
National culture and compensation: hypotheses and evidence	144
National culture effects: caveats and cautions	152
Conclusion	155
12 Pay for performance for global employees	158
AINO SALIMÄKI AND ROBERT L. HENEMAN
Pay for performance practices	158
Global perspective on compensation practices	161
Expatriate considerations	163
Institutional context	164
Local cultural sensitivities	165
Conclusions	166
13 Global wages in industries with low entry barrier occupations: the case of quick service restaurants, call centers and hotels/motels	169
JERRY NEWMAN AND RICHARD FLOERSCH
Factors affecting global compensation decisions	169
The quick service restaurant (QSR) industry: the case of McDonald's	171
The call center industry	173
Wage determination comparisons of call centers and QSRs	175
The hospitality industry	177
Conclusions	177
14 Employee benefits around the world	179
JOSEPH J. MARTOCCHIO AND NITI PANDEY
North America	179
Europe	183
Asia	187
Conclusion	191

xii • Contents

- 15 Explaining high US CEO pay in a global context: an institutional perspective 192
DAVID B. BALKIN
CEO pay in a global context 193
Institutional theory and CEO pay 194
Conclusion 202
- 16 Beyond financial performance: is there something missing in executive compensation schemes? 206
PASCUAL BERRONE AND LUIS R. GOMEZ-MEJIA
The traditional approach to the corporate, objective and executive compensation 207
An alternative approach to the corporate objective and executive compensation 208
Conclusion 215
- Index* 219