

E-Journals Access and Management

Edited by Wayne Jones

CONTENTS

About the Editor	xiii
Contributors	xv
Acknowledgments	xxi

PART I: THE DIGITAL ENVIRONMENT

Chapter 1. Electronic Resources: The New Frontier for Academic Libraries	3
Kathleen Shearer

Introduction	3
Licensing	3
Open Access	4
Digitization and Preservation	6
Scholarly Communication	7
The Role of Libraries	9

Chapter 2. Copyright, E-Journals, and Libraries: Points of Intersection	13
Brett Waytuck

Introduction	13
E-Journals	15
Licensing	18
Removal of Content	19
Open Access	20

Chapter 3. Open Access Journals: The Global Movement and Local Publishing	25
Wayne Johnston

Introduction	25
Definitions	26
Benefits and Challenges	27

Development of Open Access	31
Open Journal Systems	32
Conclusion	37

Chapter 4. Preserving the Outputs of Scholarly Communication for the Long Term: A Review of Recent Developments in Digital Preservation for Electronic Journal Content	39
Michael Day

Introduction	39
Defining the Digital Preservation Problem	42
Solving the Digital Preservation Problem	44
Recent Progress in Developing E-Journal Preservation Services	51
LOCKSS	52
The Wider Contexts of Scholarly Communication	54
Conclusions	59

PART II: LICENSING, ACQUISITION, AND COLLECTION

Chapter 5. Current Challenges in Licensing Negotiation: An Academic Library Perspective	67
Joy Kirchner

Background	67
Current Licensing Negotiation Challenges	70
Trends Likely to Influence Licensing Practices	81
Conclusion	86

Chapter 6. Developing a Model License: A Canadian Consortium's Experience	91
Scott Gillies
Tony Horava

Overview of Model Licenses	91
Consortium Background	98
Developing the OCUL Model License	100
Features of the OCUL Model License	102
Uses for Model Licenses	110

Chapter 7. E-Journals, Budgets, and Collection Policies:
Managing the Serials Stranglehold in Libraries 119
Will Wakeling

Introduction	119
Collecting and Budgeting for E-Journals	120
Pricing Models and Components	122
The Big Deal and Bundling	124
The Transition from Print to Electronic	126
The Nonsubscription Cost Savings of E-Journals	129
E-Journals, Access, and Document Delivery	129
Open Access and E-Journals	131

Chapter 8. Redefining Service Roles in the E-Environment 137
Rollo Turner

Introduction	137
The Need for Intermediaries in a Changing World	138
Acquire and Renew	141
Access	145
Support	149
Conclusions	152

Chapter 9. Decline of Print Journals 155
Tinker Massey

History	155
Technology: Changes and Reactions	156
Future?	159

Chapter 10. The Collaborative Journey from Print to Electronic 163
Karen Pipher

Review of the Literature	163
The Process	164
Conclusion	167

Chapter 11. When Print Doesn't Fade 171

Christa Easton

Introduction	171
Background	171
Literature Review	173
Electronic Resources, 2001-2005	173
Periodicals, 2001-2005	175
Staffing, 2001-2005	175
Describing the Jump	176
How We Managed	177
Conclusion	181

PART III: ACCESS—CATALOGING, METADATA, AND THE WEB

Chapter 12. Access Revolution: The Birth, Growth, and Supremacy of Electronic Journals As an Information Medium 187

Norm Medeiros

Introduction	187
Evolution of Journal Article Access	188
The Debut of E-Journals	189
Web Lists	191
New Research Methods	192
CrossRef, OpenURL, and a Fledgling Search Engine	194
Today, Tomorrow, and Beyond	197

Chapter 13. E-Journals and the Development of Resource Description and Access 201

Chris Oliver

Introduction	201
Background	202
The Seriality Problem	204
FRBR and Seriality	206
The Content versus Carrier Problem	209
FRBR and Content versus Carrier	211
RDA	212

RDA and the Mode of Issuance	214
RDA and Content versus Carrier	216
Conclusion	219

PART IV: ELECTRONIC RESOURCE MANAGEMENT SYSTEMS

Chapter 14. The Need for Electronic Resource Management Systems in Libraries	227
Stephanie H. Wical
Introduction	227
Managing Metadata	228
Access and Maintenance	230
Usage Statistics	231
Perpetual Access	232
Communication, Workflow, and Interoperability	234
Chapter 15. Shopping in the ERM Aisle: Vendor and Open Source Offerings and Hints for the Busy Shopper	239
Andrew Waller Helen Clarke
A New Challenge	239
The State of the Marketplace	240
Commercial Vendor Offerings	240
Open Source Electronic Resource Management Systems	244
Considerations Beyond the Basic Requirements	245
Conclusion	249
Chapter 16. Knowledgebase Maintenance and Its Impact on Electronic Access Tools	253
Peter McCracken
Introduction	253
Knowledgebases and Online Public Access Catalogs (OPACs)	254
Building and Maintaining a Knowledgebase	255
Quality of Data	256
Distribution	259

Features to Consider in Knowledgebases	261
How Libraries Use Knowledgebases	263
Chapter 17. Electronic Resource Management Using a Vendor Product	267
Janet Chisman
John Webb
Introduction	267
Licensing	268
ERM Task Force	270
ERM from Innovative Interfaces	272
Chapter 18. A Homegrown Contract Database	277
Charlene N. Simser
Introduction	277
The Paper Trail	278
The Homegrown Contract Database	280
Participants in the Discussion	281
The Design	281
Elements Used in the Database	282
Administrative Features	284
Enhancements List Created	285
Lessons Learned As We Move into the Future	285
PART V: STAFFING AND WORKFLOW
Chapter 19. E-Journal Workflow, Staffing, and Collaboration in Technical Services: A Taste for Coffee, a Tolerance for Ambiguity, and a Happy Ending	289
Ladd Brown
Introduction	289
The E-Journal Workflow: Inventing the Wheel	289
The M-Word	294
Staffing: The EJ Team	296
Collaboration: Creation of the Tech(Ser)Nostructure	299
A Happy Ending	301

Chapter 20. E-Journal Management in the Small Academic Library	303
Krista M. Reichard
Brent Alan Mai
Judy Anderson

Introduction	303
The Drive Toward E-Journals	304
Personnel	305
Funding E-Journal Collections	305
Access	306
Print Journals with Online Access	307
Journal Aggregator Databases	309
Single E-Journal Subscriptions	311
Open Access Journals	312
Repercussions of Canceling Print Journals	313
Conclusion	313

PART VI: THE FUTURE

Chapter 21. Thoughts on the Future of E-Journal Management and Access	319
Steve Oberg

Introduction	319
Longevity	321
Management	322
Content	324
Access	324

Index	327
--------------	------------