

CRASH COURSE

in Library Gift Programs

The Reluctant Curator's Guide to Caring for Archives, Books, and Artifacts in a Library Setting

Ann Roberts

CONTENTS

Introduction	ix
Chapter 1—To Keep or Not to Keep?	1
Knowing When and How to Say “No”	2
Collection Development Policies	3
A General Outline of the Policy	4
Collecting Priorities, Limitations, and Acquisitions	5
Examples from Special Collections Policy	7
Totally Public Library	8
Department of Special Collections Collection Development Policy	8
Procedures for Reviewing Collection Development Guidelines	10
Deed of Gift	10
Loan Agreements	11
Chapter 2—A Happy Home or a Final Resting Place?	13
The Preservation Survey	14
A Preservation Plan	16
The Big Picture: The Macroenvironment	16
The Darker Side of Light	17
Shelving	18
Up Close and Personal in a Microenvironment	19
Paper	19
Books	23
Photographic Materials	25
Caring for Artifacts and Objects	27
Wooden Objects and Furniture	28
The Art of Caring for Paintings	30
Metal, Glass, and Ceramic	31
Metal	32
Ceramic and Glass	33
Textiles	34
Mold, Mildew, and Fungi—Oh My!	35
Damage	36
Damage Control	36
Lamination Damnation!	37
So What’s the Big Deal about Laminating?	39
What to Do	39
Preservation Photocopying and Microfilming	40
Photocopying	41
Microfilming	42
Conclusion	44
Chapter 3—A Meaningful Life	47
Research Usage Policies	47
Arrangement and Description of Archival Materials	50

So, We Have a Little Arrangement Here, Do We Not?
Allow Me to Describe It	51
Finding Aids	53
Record Keeping for Artifacts	54
Marketing, Programming, and Outreach	60
Why Market Your Special Collections?	60
Audit Thyself, Yet Again	61
Genealogy	62
The Marketing Plan	64
Put It in Writing	65
Goals and Objectives	65
Strategies	65
Evaluation	66
Exhibits	66
Steps to Take Prior to the Loan	67
Loan Agreement Form	70
Condition Report	70
Other Specifications	70
Who Does What?	74
Programming and Other Outreach	75
The Evaluation	77
A Strong Web Presence	79
Digital Collections	80
Digitization as Preservation	81
Virtual Collections	82
Conclusion	83
Chapter 4—Be Prepared	85
An Ounce of Prevention Is Well . . . Worth It	86
“It Was Just Like Watching a Movie”	87
Fire Prevention and Suppression	88
Theft Prevention and Detection	89
Tamper-Resistant Exhibit Cases	90
Installing Tamper-Resistant Screws in Existing Cases	92
Security for New Exhibit Case Construction	92
Other Emergencies	92
Water Leaks	93
Committing the Plan to Paper	93
Recovery	97
Recovery Steps for Books	98
Photographs	101
Paintings	102
Art Objects	102
Textiles	102
Steering Clear of Sticky Wickets, or Just Doing the Right Thing	103
Copyright: The Ultimate Sticky Wicket	103
Copyright Secured Automatically upon Creation	105

So What Works Are Protected?	105
United States Copyright Office	105
NAGPRA: What Is It and Why Do I Mention It?	106
ADA Title II	107
Conclusion	108

Chapter 5—Relying on the Kindness of Strangers:

Parent Organizations, Boards, and the Community	109
Parent Organizations	110
Controlling Our Passions	110
Board Members and Other Volunteers	111
The Volunteer Policy	112
Statement of Need	112
Purpose and Scope of the Volunteer Policies	112
Definition of Volunteer	113
Library Management and Staff’s Responsibility to Their Volunteers	113
Volunteer Recruitment and Selection	114
Board Selection	124
Board Education	125
Conclusion	126
Conclusion: Yet Another Reason You’re Special	127
References	129
Appendixes	131
Index	135