

A detailed marble bust of Isaac Newton, shown in profile facing right. The bust captures his curly hair, prominent nose, and a high-collared coat with buttons. The background is a dark, textured surface.

ANDREW JANIAK

Newton

AS PHILOSOPHER

CAMBRIDGE

Contents

Preface	page vii
Note on texts and translations	xi
1 Newton as philosopher, the very idea	1
2 Physics and metaphysics: three interpretations	11
Hypotheses non fingo and metaphysical agnosticism	15
Newton's radical empiricism	25
A physical metaphysics: inverting Descartes?	32
3 Do forces exist? contesting the mechanical philosophy, I	50
Newton's dilemma: action at a distance	53
The mathematical treatment of force	58
Forces in Leibniz and Clarke	65
Newton's dilemma resolved	74
The ontology of force	81
4 Matter and mechanism: contesting the mechanical philosophy, II	87
Is gravity an occult quality?	88
Descartes and Newton on matter's essence	102
The epistemology of material objects	113
A new concept: non-mechanical matter	118
5 Space in physics and metaphysics: contra Descartes	130
Space and the laws of motion	132
The ontology of space	139
Newton's absolutism revisited	150
Is Newton's view of space metaphysical?	155
6 God and natural philosophy	163
Bibliography	179
Index	190