

JOHN R. SEARLE

Philosophy in a New Century

Selected Essays

CAMBRIDGE

Contents

Original place of publication of the essays	page	viii
Introduction	I
1 Philosophy in a new century	4
2 Social ontology: some basic principles (with a new addendum by the author)	26
3 The Turing Test: fifty-five years later	53
4 Twenty-one years in the Chinese Room	67
5 Is the brain a digital computer?	86
6 The phenomenological illusion	107
7 The self as a problem in philosophy and neurobiology	137
8 Why I am not a property dualist	152
9 Fact and value, “is” and “ought,” and reasons for action	161
10 The unity of the proposition	181
Name index	197
Subject index	199	