

Physical Activity Intervention Series

Motivating People to Be Physically Active

Second Edition

Bess H. Marcus
LeighAnn H. Forsyth

CONTENTS

Series Preface	xi
Preface	xiii
Acknowledgments	xv

PART I Theoretical Background and Tools for Measuring Motivational Readiness 1

CHAPTER 1 Describing Physical Activity Interventions. 3

Physical Activity Recommendations	4
Definitions of Physical Activity, Exercise, and Physical Fitness	6
Physical Activity Interventions	8
Theoretical Models	9
Motivational Readiness for Behavior Change	10
Conclusion	10

CHAPTER 2 The Stages of Motivational Readiness for Change Model 11

Motivational Readiness and the Stages of Change	12
Match Treatment Strategies to Stages of Change	15
Processes of Behavior Change	16
Conclusion	20

CHAPTER 3 Integrating Other Psychological Theories and Models. 21

Learning Theory	22
Decision-Making Theory	25
Behavioral Choice Theory	26
Social Cognitive Theory	28
Ecological Model	29
Relapse Prevention Model	30
Conclusion	32

CHAPTER 4	Putting Theories to Work by Looking at Mediators of Change	35
	Consider Mediators of Physical Activity Behavior Change	36
	Factors That Enhance Physical Activity	38
	Unlock the “Black Box”	46
	Conclusion	47
CHAPTER 5	Using the Stages Model for Successful Physical Activity Interventions.	49
	Imagine Action: A Community-Based Program	50
	Jump Start to Health: A Workplace-Based Study	52
	Jump Start: A Community-Based Study	54
	Project Active: A Community-Based Study	55
	Project STRIDE: A Community-Based Study	56
	Step Into Motion: A Community-Based Study	56
	Conclusion	57
PART II	Applications	59
CHAPTER 6	Assessing Physical Activity Patterns and Physical Fitness	61
	Discovering Patterns of Physical Activity Behavior	62
	Determining Intensity Level	63
	Tracking Physical Activity Behavior	65
	Assessing Fitness	73
	Assessing Physical Activity and Fitness in Group Settings	77
	Conclusion	78
CHAPTER 7	Using the Stages Model in Individual Counseling	79
	Physical Readiness	80
	Physical Activity History	82
	Psychological Readiness	82
	Confidence	89
	Set Short- and Long-Term Goals	90
	Measure Success	91
	Conclusion	108
CHAPTER 8	Using the Stages Model in Group Counseling Programs	109
	Leading a Stage-Based Group	110
	Learning From a Sample Stage-Based Curriculum	115
	Assessing Your Effectiveness as a Leader	118
	Conclusion	128

CHAPTER 9 Using the Stages Model in Work Site Programs . . . 129

Building Support for Your Program	131
Assessing Motivational Readiness	131
Choosing Your Target Audience.	132
Reaching Your Target Audience.	133
Developing Stage-Matched Materials	134
Focusing on Moderate-Intensity Activity	135
Planning Events	135
Adding Incentives for Participation	136
Conclusion.	146

CHAPTER 10 Using the Stages Model in Community Programs 147

Assessing the Community's Readiness for Change	149
Reaching Individuals Within a Community.	151
Developing Stage-Matched Messages.	152
Using a Media-Based Approach to Reach Your Target Audience	154
Working With Community Leaders to Reach Your Target Audience. .	156
Conclusion.	166

Appendix A: Questionnaires	167
Appendix B: Resources	177
References	181
Index	193
About the Authors	199