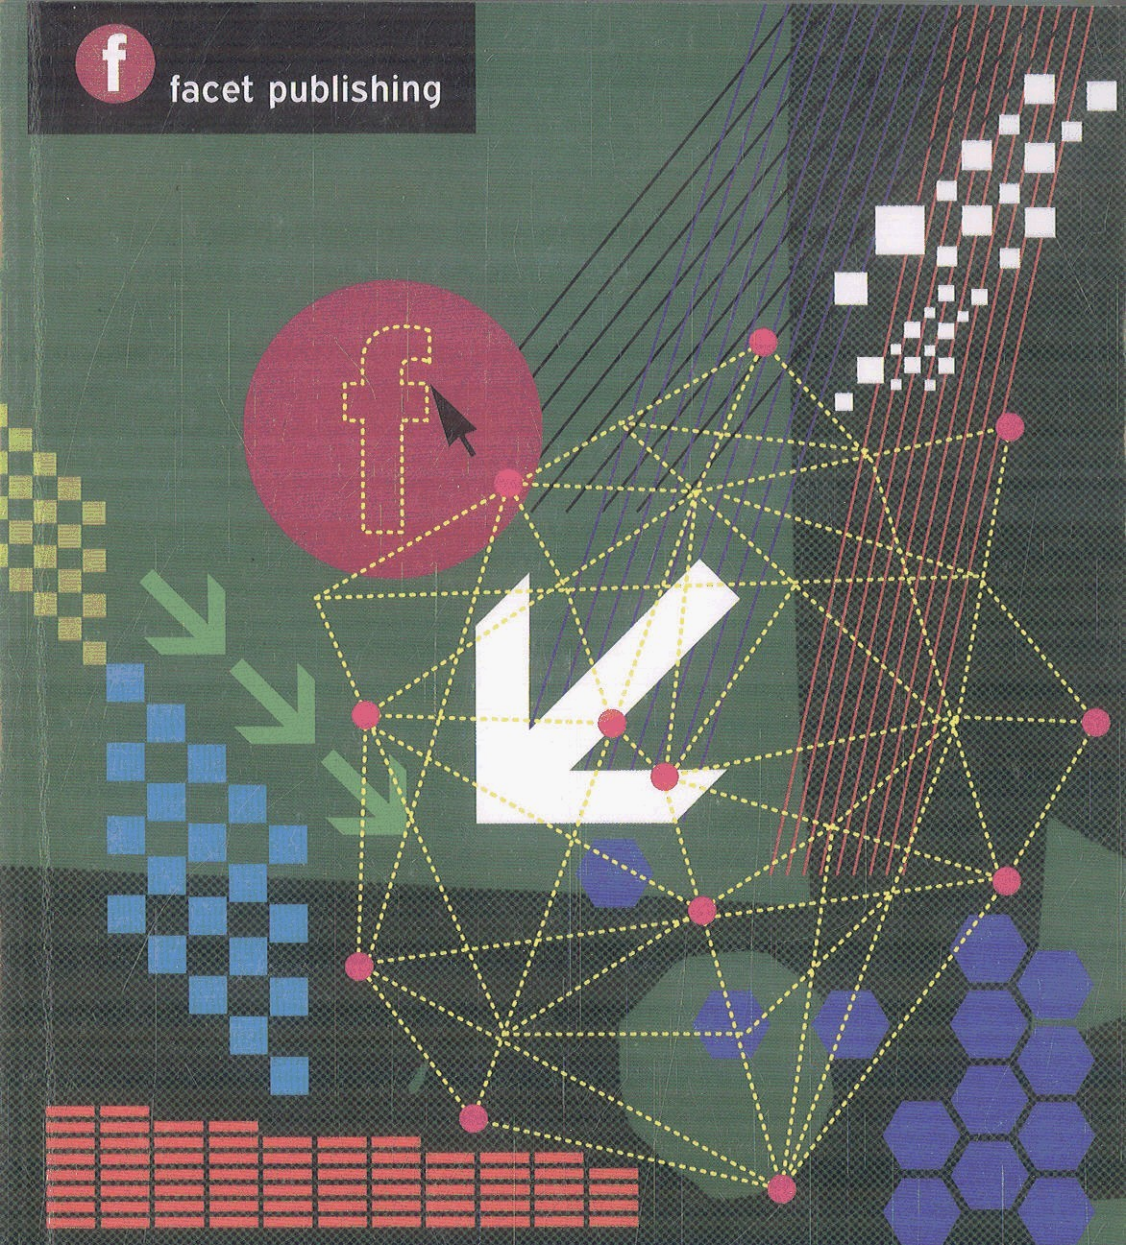
facet publishing



GOING BEYOND GOOGLE

the invisible web in learning and teaching

JANE DEVINE & FRANCINE EGGER-SIDER

Contents

List of Figures and Tables vii

Preface ix

Acknowledgments xii

PART I
UNDERSTANDING THE DIVISION BETWEEN THE VISIBLE AND INVISIBLE WEB

1. Characteristics of the Invisible Web 3
   Introduction 3
   Relationship between Search Engines and the Invisible Web 5
      Nature of the Relationship 5
      A Constantly Changing Relationship 8
      Implications of the Relationship 8
      Characteristics That Make the Invisible Web Important 9
   Nature of the Material Included 9
      Databases 9
      Deep Web Sites 11
      Other Invisible Web Resources 12
   Searchability of the Invisible Web 13
      Complexity 13
      Tools 13
      Navigation Skills 14
      Lack of Stability 14
   Place in the Research World 14
      Teachers 15
      Librarians 15
      Researchers in Any Professional Field 15
      Dissatisfied Web Searcher 15
      Anyone Wanting to Excel 15
   Conclusions 16
   References 16

2. Use of the Web for Research 17
   Introduction 17
   Statistics of Reliance on the Visible Web 17

User Studies 18
Nationwide Studies of College Students and Adults 19
Nationwide Studies of Middle School and High School Students 23
Studies of Individual Institutions 24
Other Research About Student Information-seeking Behavior 26
Faculty Research Patterns 26
Summary 28
Problems Associated with Using General-purpose Search Engines Exclusively 29
Retrieval Limits 29
Search Strategy Problems 30
Evaluation Issues 31
Conclusions 32
References 32

PART II
FINDING AND UTILIZING THE CONTENTS OF THE INVISIBLE WEB

3. Introducing Students to the Invisible Web 37
Introduction 37
Prerequisites for Learning about the Invisible Web 37
The Information Need 37
Student Attitudes and Preparedness 38
When and Where to Teach Use of the Invisible Web 39
Stages for Learning about the Invisible Web 40
Stage One Concepts: Web Searching Basics 41
Stage Two Concepts: Presenting the Invisible Web 47
Stage Three Concepts: The Riches of the Invisible Web 52
Opportunities for Invisible Web Instruction 53
Introducing the Invisible Web in Reference Work 53
Introducing the Invisible Web in the One-shot Instruction Period 54
Introducing the Invisible Web in Credit Courses 55
Introducing the Invisible Web with Course Management Systems 56
Other Opportunities for Introducing the Invisible Web 57
Summary 57
References 57

4. Further Exploration of the Invisible Web 59
Introduction 59
Activity 1: To Know 60
Objective 60
Setup 60
Conclusion 65

Activity 2: To Access 65
Objective 65
Setup 65
Conclusion 70
Activity 3: To Evaluate 70
Objective 70
Setup 70
Conclusion 73
Conclusions 74
References 74

5. Internet Research Strategies: An Example 75
Introduction 75
Using Invisible Web Content in Research: Case Study 75
Search Engine Results 77
Library Database Results 80
Subject Directory Results 81
Narrowing the Search 83
Conclusions 86
References 87
Appendix: Search on "Microfinance" in INFOMIME 88

6. A Sampler of Tools for Mining the Invisible Web 93
Introduction 93
General Subject Directories 93
Librarians' Internet Index (www.lii.org) 93
The Open Directory Project (www.dmoz.org) 95
INFOMINE: Scholarly Internet Resource Collections (http://infomine.ucr.edu) 95
Other Subject Directories of Interest 96
Databases 97
THOMAS (http://thomas.loc.gov/) 97
LexisNexis Academic (www.lexisnexis.com) 97
ERIC—Education Resources Information Center (www.eric.ed.gov/) 99
OAIster.org (www.oaister.org) 100
Specialized Search Engines 101
Invisible Web Search Engines 102
Vertical Search Engines 102
Niche Search Engines 105
Semantic Web Search Engines 106
Conclusions 107
References 107

PART III
NARROWING THE GAP BETWEEN THE VISIBLE AND INVISIBLE WEB

7. Visible versus Invisible Web: Shifting Boundaries 111

Introduction 111

Relative Size of the Surface Web and the Invisible Web 112

Commercial General-purpose Search Engine Inroads into the Invisible Web 113

Google Scholar 114

Google Book Search 114

Crawling through HTML Forms 115

Yahoo! Initiatives 115

OCLC 116

Deep Web Search Engines 116

Vertical Search Engines 117

Microsoft 117

ProQuest DigitalCommons@ 118

Web 2.0 118

Initiatives to Narrow the Gap between Visible and Invisible Web 118

Next-generation Library Catalogs 119

Federated Searching 121

Indexing the Invisible Web 122

Other Noncommercial Initiatives 122

Conclusions 124

References 124

APPENDICES

Appendix A. Selected Additional Readings 129

Appendix B. Tools for Teaching the Invisible Web 133

Appendix C. ACRL Information Literacy Standards, Performance Indicators, and Outcomes 139

Index 147

About the Authors 156