Part 1 Principles and Approaches in Qualitative Health Research	1
1 Qualitative Methodology and Health Research	3
Chapter summary	3
Introduction	3
What is qualitative research?	5
Theoretical approaches	7
Participatory research	20
The orientations of qualitative research	22
Criticisms and limitations of qualitative research	27
Conclusion	33
Key points	33
Exercise	34
Further reading	34
2 Developing Qualitative Research Designs	35
Chapter summary	35
Introduction	36
Research questions	36
Research designs: some examples	42
Problems with design typologies	48
Influences on research design	50
An idealized logic?	51
Data collection/generation and analysis methods	54
Practical issues	55
Multi-method designs: the place of qualitative work in larger health research studies	55
Conclusion	60
Key points	60
Exercises	61
Further reading	61

3	Responsibilities, Ethics and Values	62
	Chapter summary	62
	Introduction	62
	Values in research	63
	Ethical review and codes of practice	67
	Informed consent	68
	Confidentiality	70
	Responsibilities to research participants	72
	Different models of the research relationship	81
	Responsibilities to yourself and co-workers	82
	Ethical dilemmas and conflicts	84
	Conclusion	89
	Key points	89
	Exercises	90
	Further reading	90
Part 2	Generating and Analysing Data	91
4	In-depth Interviews	93
	Chapter summary	93
	Introduction	93
	The research interview	94
	A word on language	95
	Language in cross-cultural settings	98
	Assumptions about our own language	100
	In-depth interviews: what they can and can't do	102
	Context and data	104
	Designing and doing interviews	109
	Improving reliability	116
	Transcribing interviews	117
	Sampling: how many and who to interview?	118
	Conclusion	120
	Key points	121
	Exercises	121
	Further reading	122
5	Group Interviews	123
	Chapter summary	123
	Introduction	123
	Different kinds of group interview: an overview	124
	Consensus panels	125
	Community interviews and participatory methods	126
	Focus groups	127
	Natural groups	128
	Advantages of using group interviews	129
	Naturalism	134
	Limitations	137

Practical issues	138
Developing appropriate methods for the setting	144
Conclusion	145
Key points	145
Exercise	145
Further reading	146
6 Observational Methods	147
Chapter summary	147
Introduction	148
Participant and non-participant observation	150
Ethnography and participant observation	151
Doing ethnography close to home	153
Overt and covert roles	156
'Mystery shopping' and pseudo-patient studies	158
Planning a participant observation study	160
Rapid ethnographic methods	163
Non-participant observational methods	167
Conclusion	170
Key points	171
Exercises	171
Further reading	172

Chapter summary	173
Introduction	173
Why use existing sources?	174
Public records	176
Personal documents	179
Mass media outputs	180
Research outputs	181
Systematic reviews	185
Methodological issues in using documentary sources	189
Conclusion	192
Key points	193
Exercises	193
Further reading	194
8 Analysing Qualitative data	195
Chapter summary	195
Introduction	195
Styles of analysis	197
Relating analysis to the aims of the study	198
Thematic content analysis	198
Grounded theory	203
Framework analysis	208
Narrative analysis	213

Using computer software to help manage data	216
Improving rigour in analysis	219
Rigour is not enough ...	223
Generalizability and transferability	224
Conclusion	227
Key points	227
Exercises	227
Further reading	228
Part 3 Doing Qualitative Work for Health	229
9 Qualitative Research in Practice: Settings and Contexts	231
Chapter summary	231
Introduction	231
'Pure' and applied research	232
Collaboration	237
Qualitative research within interventions	238
Communicating across disciplines	245
International collaborations	249
Opportunities	250
Conclusion	251
Key points	252
Exercise	252
Further reading	253
10 Writing up Qualitative Work	254
Chapter summary	254
Introduction	254
The writing process	255
Writing for different audiences	256
Writing for health journals	257
Writing for social science colleagues	259
Writing for and disseminating to non-specialist audiences	262
Alternatives to written reports	263
Some practical issues to consider when writing up	265
Conclusion	268
Key points	269
Exercise	269
Further reading	270
11 Reading and Appraising Qualitative Outputs	271
Chapter summary	271
Introduction	271
Reading critically	273
Appraising empirical work: are criteria possible?	274
Appraisal criteria	276

Criteria in ethnography	279
Conclusion	282
Key points	282
Exercise	282
