

SIXTH EDITION

Applied Sport Psychology

Personal Growth to Peak Performance

JEAN M. WILLIAMS

McGRAW-HILL INTERNATIONAL EDITION

CONTENTS

1 Sport Psychology: Past, Present, Future 1

Jean M. Williams, University of Arizona, Emeritus; William F. Straub, Sport Science International

- History of Sport Psychology 2
- History of Sport Psychology in Eastern Europe 10
- Future Directions in North American Applied Sport Psychology 11

PART ONE—LEARNING, MOTIVATION, AND SOCIAL INTERACTION 19

2 Motor Skill Learning for Effective Coaching and Performance 21

Cheryl A. Coker, New Mexico State University; Mark G. Fischman, Auburn University

- Motor Learning Defined 21
- Phases of Motor Skill Learning 22
- Practice Considerations 26
- Teaching Several Skills: Blocked versus Random Practice 27
- Teaching Several Variations of a Skill: Variable Practice 29
- Whole versus Part Practice 30
- Feedback: Its Functions and Use in Skill Learning and Performance 32
- Diagnosing and Correcting Errors 35

3 A Positive Approach to Coaching Effectiveness and Performance Enhancement 42

Ronald E. Smith, University of Washington

- The ABCs of Behavior Control 43
- Positive and Aversive Approaches to Influencing Behavior 45
- Positive Reinforcement: Getting Good Things to Happen 47
- Performance Feedback 52

4 Motivational Processes and the Facilitation of Quality Engagement in Sport 59

Joan L. Duda, The University of Birmingham; Darren C. Treasure, Competitive Advantage International Performance Systems

- Believing That One Can: The Construct of Self-Efficacy 60
- Achievement Goals: The Importance of How We Judge Our Competence 63
- Doing It for the Joy: The Determinants of Intrinsic Motivation and Self-Determination 71

5 The Self-Fulfilling Prophecy Theory: When Coaches' Expectations Become Reality 81

Thelma Sternberg Horn, Miami University; Curt L. Lox, Southern Illinois University; Francisco Labrador, Wittenberg University

- The Expectation–Performance Process 82
- Sport Applications 90
- Behavioral Recommendations for Coaches 98

6 Leadership Effectiveness and Decision Making in Coaches 106

Mimi C. Murray, Springfield College; Betty L. Mann, Springfield College; Jennifer K. Mead, Springfield College

- What is Leadership? 107
- Leadership Theories and Implications 107
- Authentic Leadership 115
- Multidimensional Models of Leadership in Sport 117
- Decision Making in Coaches 118
- Evaluating Leadership 120
- Leading Ethically 121
- Developing Leadership within the Team 122
- Developing Morale within the Team 123

7 The Sport Team as an Effective Group 132

Mark A. Eys, Laurentian University; Shauna M. Burke, The University of Western Ontario; Albert V. Carron, The University of Western Ontario; Paul W. Dennis, Toronto Maple Leafs Hockey Club

- The Nature of Sport Groups 133
- Group Cohesion 134
- Developing a Team Concept: Correlates of Cohesion 135
- Team Building 141

8 Communicating Effectively 149

David P. Yukelson, The Pennsylvania State University

- Communication Defined 150
- Communication in Sport 151
- Communication and Groups 153
- The Sport Psychologist as a Skilled Helper 160

PART TWO—MENTAL TRAINING FOR PERFORMANCE ENHANCEMENT 167

9 Psychological Characteristics of Peak Performance 169

Vikki Krane, Bowling Green State University; Jean M. Williams, University of Arizona, Emeritus

- Overview of Peak Performance 170
- Psychological Characteristics During Peak Experiences in Sport 170
- Flow and Peak Performance 171
- The Individualized Zone of Optimal Functioning 173
- Psychological Attributes and Skills of Successful and Less Successful Athletes 175
- A Profile of Mental Toughness 178
- Team, Coach, Family, and Organizational Influences on Peak Performance 179
- Conclusion: What It Takes to “Make It” 180

10 Increasing Awareness for Sport Performance 189

Kenneth Ravizza, California State University at Fullerton

- The Importance of Awareness in Athletics 190
- Awareness as it Relates to Skill Development 191
- Techniques for Developing Awareness 195
- Appendix: Guidelines for Keeping a Sport Journal 199

11 Goal Setting for Peak Performance 201

Daniel Gould, Michigan State University

- Goal-Setting Research and Theory 201
- Examining Athletes’ and Coaches’ Uses of Goal Setting 204

Goal-Setting Guidelines 206
A Goal-Setting System for Coaches 211
Common Problems in Setting Goals 212

12 Arousal–Performance Relationships 221

*Daniel M. Landers, Arizona State
University, Emeritus; Shawn M. Arent, Rutgers University*

The Nature of Arousal 222
Defining Arousal and Related
Constructs 222
The Relationship between Arousal and Motor
Performance 227
Estimating the Relationship between an Athlete's Optimal Arousal and
Performance 237

13 Relaxation and Energizing Techniques for Regulation of Arousal 247

*Jean M. Williams, University of Arizona,
Emeritus*

Muscle-to-Mind Relaxation Skills and Strategies 251
Mind-to-Muscle Relaxation
Techniques 257
Skills and Strategies for Learning
How to Increase Activation and Energy 261

14 Seeing Is Believing: Understanding and Using Imagery in Sport 267

*Robin S. Vealey, Miami University; Christy A.
Greenleaf, University of North Texas*

What Is Imagery? 268
Does Imagery Work to Enhance Athletes'
Performance? 271
How Does Imagery Enhance Athletes'
Performance? 275

How Do You Set Up an Imagery Training
Program? 278
Imagery Cookbook for Coaches and Practitioners 282
Case Studies 292
Appendix A Sample Imagery Script for
Competition Preparation 300
Appendix B Sport Imagery Evaluation 301

15 Cognitive Techniques for Building Confidence and Enhancing Performance 305

*Nate Zinsser, United States
Military Academy; Linda Bunker, University of Virginia, Emeritus
Jean M. Williams, University of Arizona,
Emeritus*

Key Definitions: Confidence, Mental Toughness,
Optimism, Self-Efficacy 306
Common Misconceptions about
Confidence 307
Prerequisites for Gaining Confidence 309
Self-Talk 311
Identifying Self-Talk 316
Techniques for Controlling
Self-Talk 318

16 Concentration and Strategies for Controlling It 336

*Jean M. Williams, University of Arizona,
Emeritus; Robert M. Nideffer, Enhanced
Performance Systems; Vietta E. Wilson, York
University, Senior Scholar; Marc-Simon Sagal,
The Winning Mind; Erik Peper, San Francisco
State University*

Attention Control Training Principles 337
Increasing Awareness of Types of Attention 344
External Factors: Strategies to Minimize External
Distractions 347
Internal Factors: Strategies to Stay
Centered 349

PART THREE—IMPLEMENTING TRAINING PROGRAMS 359

17 Integrating and Implementing a Psychological Skills Training Program 361

Robert S. Weinberg, Miami University; Jean M. Williams, University of Arizona, Emeritus

- Are Psychological Interventions Effective in Improving Sport Performance? 362
- Who Will Benefit from Psychological Skills Training? 363
- Who Should Conduct the Psychological Skills Training Program? 363
- When Should You Implement a Psychological Skills Training Program? 366
- When Should Athletes Practice Psychological Skills? 367
- How Much Time Should Be Spent in Mental Training? 368
- Setting Up a Mental Skills Training Program 369
- Determining What Skills to Include 375
- Evaluation of Program Effectiveness 377
- Practical Pointers for Teaching Mental Skills 379
- Ethical Considerations for the Coach and Sport Psychology Consultant 385
- Potential Problem Areas 385

18 Conducting Psychologically Oriented Coach-Training Programs: A Social-Cognitive Approach 392

Frank L. Smoll, University of Washington; Ronald E. Smith, University of Washington

- Developing Coach-Training Programs 393
- Implementing Sport Psychology Workshops for Coaches 400

A Final Word 406

APPENDIX A Summary of Coaching Guidelines 414

APPENDIX B Coach Self-Report Form 416

19 Gender and Cultural Considerations 417

Diane L. Gill, University of North Carolina at Greensboro; Cindra S. Kamphoff, Minnesota State University, Mankato

- Overview and Framework 417
- The Cultural Context of Sport 419
- Gender and Sexuality 422
- Race, Ethnicity, and Social Class 426
- Cultural Competence in Sport Psychology 429

PART FOUR—ENHANCING HEALTH AND WELL-BEING 441

20 When to Refer Athletes for Counseling or Psychotherapy 443

David Tod, Aberystwyth University; Mark B. Andersen, Victoria University

- Counseling and Sport Psychology 444
- Differentiating Performance Enhancement From More Problematic Personal Issues 445
- How to start the Referral Process 446
- When Referrals Don't Go Smoothly 448
- More Specific Athlete-Related Issues 449
- Professional Development Tasks for Practitioners and Students 454

21 Drug Abuse in Sport: Causes and Cures 463

Mark H. Anshel, Middle Tennessee State University

Review of Drugs Banned in Sport 465
Rationale for an Antidrug Policy in Sport 469
How Widespread Is Drug Abuse in Sport? 469
Likely Causes of Drug Abuse in Sport 472
Strategies for Controlling Drug Abuse 474

22 Burnout in Sport: Understanding the Process—From Early Warning Signs to Individualized Intervention 492

Kate Goodger, English Institute of Sport; David Lavalley, Aberystwyth University; Trish Gorely, Loughborough University; Chris Harwood, Loughborough University

Introduction 492
Burnout, Dropout, Overtraining, and Staleness 494
Signs, Symptoms, and Consequences of Burnout 495
Theories and Models of Burnout in Sport 496
Examining Burnout in Sport 499
Monitoring Burnout 502
Interventions 504
Case Study 506

23 Injury Risk and Rehabilitation: Psychological Considerations 512

Jean M. Williams, University of Arizona, Emeritus; Carrie B. Scherzer, State University of New York College at Potsdam

Factors That Predispose Athletes to Injury 513
Interventions to Reduce Injury Vulnerability 517
Athletes' Reactions to Injury 519

Reacting to Injured Athletes 526
Teaching Specific Psychological Rehabilitation Strategies 529

24 Career Transition among Athletes: Is There Life after Sports? 542

Jim Taylor, San Francisco; David Lavalley, Aberystwyth University

History and Background 542
Theoretical Perspectives on Career Transition 544
Conceptual Model of Career Transition 545
Stage 1: Causes of Career Termination 545
Stage 2: Factors Related to Adaptation to Career Transition 547
Stage 3: Available Resources for Adaptation to Career Transition 550
Stage 4: Quality of Career Transition 552
Stage 5: Intervention for Career Transition 552

25 Exercise Psychology 563

Rod K. Dishman, The University of Georgia; Heather O. Chambliss, The Cooper Institute

Exercise and Mental Health 564
Plausible Mediators or Mechanisms 568
Physical Activity Behavior Change 572

Author Index 596
Subject Index 607