

CULTURE AND ELECTORAL POLITICS IN SOUTHERN THAILAND

Marc R. Askew

Chuan Leekpai and Phrai Phatthano accepting garlands during Phrai's final rally for the Hat Yai City election, February 2004. (Photo: courtesy Samilla Times)

CONTENTS

	i
Report Summary	v
Note on Transliteration and Thai Names	vi
Preface	vii
Acknowledgements	1
Chapter 1. Introduction	24
Chapter 2. Culture, Politics, and the uses of "Political Culture"	24
Culture and Politics	27
The General Usage of "Political Culture"	27
Historical Treatments of Politics and Culture	28
"Political Culture" in Political Science and Sociology	31
Anthropological Approaches to the Study of "Politics"	36
Culture and Thai Politics	46
A Multiplicity of "Cultures"	47
Representing "Southern Thai Culture" and "Southern Thai-Political Culture"	48
"Southern Thai Culture" in Folklore Studies	52
A "Southern Thai Political Culture" ?	60
Chapter 3. Remarks on Approach and Method	60
Using "Culture" and "Political Culture"	60

Ethnography, Election Events and Political Culture	62
Songkhla as a Research Site	63
Opportunities and Challenges in the Field Research	67
Chapter 4. Songkhla in the Regional and Political Landscape	67
Songkhla and the South: Economy, Population and Ethno-Religious Diversity	70
Songkhla in the Democrat South	79
Chapter 5. The By-election: Defending the Democrat Heartland	79
The Symbolic Construction of the Democrat Political Community	80
The Political Environment	81
Selecting and the Candidates	85
The Campaigns: Organizing and Canvassing	91
Performing Party Identities: The Rallies	101
Votes and Verdicts	111
Chapter 6. Local Politics goes National A Convergence of Spheres	111
Democrat Krasae and Person-based Politics	112
Defeating a Ruling Family the Political Stakes of the Hat Yai Contest	115
Barimi and Ballots the Suwannawong Inheritance	122
Phrai Phatthanos Coalition Building a Krasae of "Change"	124
The Competition for Legitimacy	127
The Decisive Stroke The BY-election and Chuan's Blessings	131

Explaining the Democrats Southern Triumph	213
The Songkhla Results	221
Chapter 10. Conclusion: Anatomy of the Democrat Ascendancy	221
The Dynamics of Political Loyalty and Affiliation: Poetics, Symbolism, Socialfamilial bonds and Organization	223
Metaphors and Images: Southerners and Democrats as a Symbolic Political Community	232
Solidarities: Phakphuak, Patronage and Families	237
Trakun Barami and Family Bonds	242
Identity, Membership and Organization	245
A Monopoly of Trust: Poetics and Pragmatism in the Democrat Ascendancy	251

References

The Provincial Presidency Contest: Personal Allegiance vs Party Solidarity	147
Chapter 7 The 2005 National Elections (1):
Contested Images, competing loyalties	147
The Challenge to Democrat Ascendancy	147
The Political Environment	150
The Democrat's Vulnerable Constituencies	153
The Non-Democrats: Different Parties, Familiar Faces	154
TRT Challengers: Repute, Support and Resources	161
Challenging the Democrat Ascendancy: Crafting Local Loyalties and Pronouncing Development	170
The Democrat Riposte: Demonizing Thaksin and Invoking a Moral Political Heritage	177
The Appearance of Chuan	185
Chapter. 8 The 2005 National Elections (2):
Alliances and Persuasions: Hua khanaen and vote-buying	185
Who are the Hua Khanaen?	188
Forming Hua Khanaen Groups in Constituency Five	196
The Hua Khanaen Factor: Assessing the Forces	198
Vote-buying in the South Myth and Reality	200
Money and the Struggle for Votes in Constituency X	205
The Ambiguous Role of Money	211
Chapter 9 The 2005 National Elections (3): Interpreting Victory and Defeat	211
National Defeat, Regional Victory:	