PART ONE

---

INTRODUCTION TO HUMAN LEARNING

CHAPTER 1

---

Perspectives on Learning	1
The Importance of Learning	2
Defining Learning	4
Determining When Learning Has Occurred	4
Research, Principles, and Theories	5
Advantages of Theories	6
Potential Drawbacks of Theories	7
A Perspective on Theories and Principles	8
Applying Knowledge About Learning to Instructional Practice	8
Overview of the Book	9
Summary	10

---

Learning and the Brain	11
Basic Building Blocks of the Human Nervous System	12
Neurons	13
Synapses	14
Glial Cells	14
Brain Structures and Functions	15
Methods in Brain Research	15
Parts of the Brain	16

The Left and Right Hemispheres	18
Interconnectedness of Brain Structures	19
Development of the Brain	20
Prenatal Development	20
Development in Infancy and Early Childhood	21
Development in Middle Childhood, Adolescence, and Adulthood	22
Factors Influencing Brain Development	23
To What Extent Are There Critical Periods in Brain Development?	24
To What Extent Is the Brain “Prewired” to Know or Learn Things?	26
The Physiological Basis of Learning	28
Educational Implications of Brain Research	29
Summary	30

PART TWO

---

BEHAVIORIST VIEWS OF LEARNING

CHAPTER 3

---

Behaviorism and Classical Conditioning	32
Basic Assumptions of Behaviorism	33
Classical Conditioning	35
The Classical Conditioning Model	36
Classical Conditioning in Human Learning	37
Common Phenomena in Classical Conditioning	39

Cognition in Classical Conditioning	42
Changing Undesirable Conditioned Responses	43
Educational Implications of Behaviorist Assumptions and Classical Conditioning	45
Summary	47

---

Instrumental Conditioning	49
Thorndike's Early Research	50
Rewards and Reinforcement	51
Skinner's Operant Conditioning	51
The Various Forms That Reinforcement Can Take	54
Punishment	59
Effective Forms of Punishment	61
Ineffective Forms of Punishment	63
Common Phenomena in Instrumental Conditioning	65
Superstitious Behavior	65
Shaping	65
Chaining	66
Extinction	67
Effects of Reinforcement Schedules	68
Avoidance Learning	73
Effects of Antecedent Stimuli and Responses in Instrumental Conditioning	75
Cueing	75
Setting Events	76
Generalization	76
Stimulus Discrimination	77
Behavioral Momentum	77
Cognition and Motivation in Instrumental Conditioning	78
Summary	79

CHAPTER 5

---

Applications of Instrumental Conditioning	81
Applying Behaviorist Principles to Classroom Management	82
Concerns About Using Reinforcement and Punishment in the Classroom	82
Using Reinforcement to Increase Desirable Behaviors	86

Strategies for Decreasing Undesirable Behaviors	90
Applied Behavior Analysis	96
Components of Applied Behavior Analysis	97
Using Applied Behavior Analysis with Large Groups	100
Adding a Cognitive Component to ABA	103
Effectiveness of ABA	103
Instructional Objectives	104
Behavioral Objectives	104
Current Perspectives on Instructional Objectives	105
Usefulness and Effectiveness of Objectives	106
Formulating Different Levels of Objectives	107
Programmed Instruction and Computer-Assisted Instruction	108
Effectiveness of PI and CAI	111
Mastery Learning	111
Keller's Personalized System of Instruction (PSI)	112
Effectiveness of Mastery Learning and PSI	113
When Behaviorist Techniques Are Most Appropriate	114
Summary	115

PART THREE

---

SOCIAL COGNITIVE THEORY

CHAPTER 6

---

Social Cognitive Theory	117
The Social Cognitive Approach	118
General Principles of Social Cognitive Theory	119
Environmental Factors in Social Learning: Revisiting Reinforcement and Punishment	120
How the Environment Reinforces and Punishes Modeling	120
Problems with a Strict Behaviorist Analysis of Social Learning	122
Cognitive Factors in Social Learning	122
Reciprocal Causation	125
Modeling	126
How Modeling Affects Behavior	127
Characteristics of Effective Models	128

Behaviors That Can Be Learned Through Modeling	129
Conditions Necessary for Effective Modeling to Occur	132
Self-Efficacy	135
How Self-Efficacy Affects Behavior	136
Factors in the Development of Self-Efficacy	137
Self-Regulation	139
Elements of Self-Regulation	140
Promoting Self-Regulated Behavior	141
The Cognitive Side of Self-Regulation	144
Educational Implications of Social Cognitive Theory	145
Summary	148

PART FOUR

COGNITIVE VIEWS OF LEARNING

CHAPTER 7

Introduction to Cognition and Memory	149
Edward Tolman's Purposive Behaviorism	150
Gestalt Psychology	153
Verbal Learning Research	157
Introduction to Contemporary Cognitivism	161
General Assumptions of Cognitive Theories	162
Information Processing Theory	163
Constructivism	164
Contextual Views	165
Integrating Cognitive Perspectives	166
An Information Processing View of Human Memory	166
A Dual-Store Model of Memory	168
Sensory Register	169
Moving Information to Working Memory: The Role of Attention	171
Working Memory	176
Moving Information to Long-Term Memory: Connecting New Information with Prior Knowledge	182
Long-Term Memory	182
Challenges to the Dual-Store Model	183
Alternative Views of Human Memory	186
Remembering That The Map Is Not the Territory	189

General Educational Implications of Cognitive Theories	190
Summary	192

CHAPTER 8

Long-Term Memory I: Storage	194
Construction in Storage	195
Examples of Construction in Action	195
Long-Term Memory Storage Processes	199
Selection	201
Rehearsal	202
Meaningful Learning	203
Internal Organization	204
Elaboration	205
Visual Imagery	207
How Procedural Knowledge Is Acquired	209
Does New Knowledge Require a Consolidation Period?	210
Factors Affecting Long-Term Memory Storage	210
Working Memory	211
Prior Knowledge	211
Prior Misconceptions	215
Expectations	216
Verbalization	218
Enactment	218
Repetition and Review	219
Promoting Effective Storage Processes	222
Some Final Remarks About Long-Term Memory Storage	230
Summary	231

CHAPTER 9

Long-Term Memory II: The Nature of Knowledge	232
The Various Kinds of Knowledge	233
Declarative and Procedural Knowledge	233
Explicit and Implicit Knowledge	234
How Information Is Encoded in Long-Term Memory	235
Encoding in Terms of Symbols: Words, Numbers, Etc.	236
Encoding in Terms of Appearance: Imagery	236

Encoding in Terms of Meanings: Propositions	237
Encoding in Terms of Actions: Productions	238
Different Forms of Encoding Are Not Mutually Exclusive	239
The Organization of Long-Term Memory	239
Long-Term Memory as a Hierarchy	240
Long-Term Memory as a Propositional Network	242
Parallel Distributed Processing	245
Concepts	246
Theories of Concept Learning	249
Factors Facilitating Concept Learning	259
Schemas and Scripts	262
Personal Theories	264
Personal Theories Versus Reality	266
Fostering Theory Development	267
Worldviews	269
The Challenge of Conceptual Change	270
Promoting Conceptual Change	272
Development of Expertise	276
Generalizations About the Nature of Knowledge	278
Summary	280

CHAPTER 10

---

Long-Term Memory III: Retrieval and Forgetting	282
How Retrieval Works	283
Retrieval Cues	286
Construction in Retrieval	287
The Power of Suggestion: Effects of Subsequently Presented Information	289
Constructing Entirely New "Memories"	290
Remembering Earlier Recollections	291
Self-Monitoring During Retrieval	292
Important Cautions in Probing People's Memories	293
Forgetting	293
Decay	294
Interference	294
Failure to Retrieve	295
Repression	296
Construction Error	297
Failure to Store or Consolidate	297
The Case of Infantile Amnesia	297

General Principles of Retrieval for Instructional Settings	299
Summary	306

PART FIVE

---

DEVELOPMENTAL PERSPECTIVES

CHAPTER 11

---

Developmental Perspectives on Cognition	308
Piaget's Theory of Cognitive Development	309
Key Ideas in Piaget's Theory	310
Piaget's Stages of Cognitive Development	312
Current Perspectives on Piaget's Theory	318
Capabilities of Different Age-Groups	319
Effects of Experience and Prior Knowledge	319
Effects of Culture	320
Views on Piaget's Stages	320
Neo-Piagetian Theories of Cognitive Development	321
Case's Theory	322
Implications of Piagetian and Neo-Piagetian Theories	325
Vygotsky's Theory of Cognitive Development	329
Key Ideas in Vygotsky's Theory	329
Current Perspectives on Vygotsky's Theory	332
Social Construction of Meaning	333
Scaffolding	335
Participation in Adult Activities	336
Apprenticeships	336
Acquisition of Teaching Skills	337
Dynamic Assessment	338
Adding a Sociocultural Element to Information Processing Theory	339
Intersubjectivity	339
Social Construction of Memory	340
Collaborative Use of Cognitive Strategies	341
Implications of Vygotsky's Theory and Its Offshoots	342
Comparing Piagetian and Vygotskian Perspectives	345
Common Themes	345
Key Theoretical Differences	346
Summary	348

PART SIX

---

COMPLEX LEARNING AND COGNITION

CHAPTER 12

---

Metacognition, Self-Regulated Learning, and Study Strategies 350

Metacognitive Knowledge and Skills	352
Self-Regulated Learning	354
The Roots of Self-Regulated Learning	356
Effective Learning and Study Strategies	357
Meaningful Learning and Elaboration	357
Organization	358
Note Taking	361
Identifying Important Information	363
Summarizing	363
Comprehension Monitoring	364
Mnemonics	366
Development of Metacognitive Knowledge and Skills	373
Epistemological Beliefs	375
Developmental and Cultural Differences in Epistemological Beliefs	377
Effects of Epistemological Beliefs	378
The Intentional Learner	380
Why Students Don't Always Use Effective Strategies	381
Promoting Effective Learning and Study Strategies	383
Effectiveness of Study Skills Training Programs	384
Guidelines for Promoting Effective Strategies	384
Summary	389

---

Transfer and Problem Solving	391
Transfer	392
Types of Transfer	392
Theories of Transfer	395
Factors Affecting Transfer	399
Problem Solving	401
Theories of Problem Solving	403
Cognitive Factors in Problem Solving	405
Problem-Solving Strategies	414

Meaningless Versus Meaningful Problem

Solving	419
Facilitating Transfer and Problem Solving in the Classroom	420
Summary	426

CHAPTER 14

---

Social Processes in Knowledge Construction	428
How Interactions with Peers Can Promote Thinking and Learning	429
Class Discussions	431
Guidelines for Promoting Effective Discussions	431
Reciprocal Teaching	434
Effectiveness of Reciprocal Teaching	436
Cooperative Learning	437
Common Features of Cooperative Learning	438
How Heterogeneous Should Cooperative Groups Be?	441
Effectiveness of Cooperative Learning Activities	442
Peer Tutoring	443
Guidelines for Facilitating Effective Tutoring	444
Community of Learners	445
Guidelines for Creating Effective Learning Communities	447
Computer-Mediated Communication Technologies	448
Summary	449

PART SEVEN

---

MOTIVATION

CHAPTER 15

---

Motivation and Affect	451
General Effects of Motivation	453
Extrinsic Versus Intrinsic Motivation	453
Basic Human Needs	455
Drive Reduction	455
Arousal	457
Maslow's Hierarchy of Needs	458
Competence and Self-Worth	461
Self-Determination	463
Relatedness	468

Individual Differences in Motivation	469	Social Goals	503
Need for Affiliation	469	Career Goals	504
Need for Approval	469	Coordinating Multiple Goals	504
Need for Achievement	470	Attributions	505
Dispositions	472	Effects of Attributions	508
Affect and Its Effects	474	Factors Influencing the Nature of
How Affect Is Related to Motivation	474	Attributions	511
How Affect Is Related to Learning and		Explanatory Style: Mastery Orientation Versus
Cognition	474	Learned Helplessness	517
Anxiety	477	Motivation, Affect, and Self-Regulation	519
Creating a Motivating Classroom		How Motivation and Affect Influence
Environment	482	Self-Regulation	519
Summary	489	How Self-Regulation Influences Motivation and
CHAPTER 16		Affect	520
		Internalized Motivation	521
Cognitive Factors in Motivation	491	Encouraging Cognition That Motivates	523
Interest	492	A TARGET Mnemonic for Motivational
Effects of Interest	492	Strategies	531
Factors Promoting Interest	493	Summary	533
Expectancies and Values	494	References	R-1
Effects of Expectancies and Values	494	Author Index	A-1
Factors Influencing Expectancies and Values	494	Subject Index	S-1
Goals	496
Achievement Goals	497
Work-Avoidance Goals	503
