

HANDBOOK OF RESEARCH ON

Improving Learning and Motivation through
Educational Games
Multidisciplinary Approaches

Patrick Felicia

Volume II

Table of Contents

Foreword	xxxv
Preface	xxxviii
Acknowledgment.....	xlix
Volume I
Section 1 Introduction to Game-Based Learning
Chapter 1
Research Review: Empirical Studies on Computer Game Play in Science Education.....	1
Gunilla Svingby, Malmö University, Sweden
Elisabet M. Nilsson, Malmö University, Sweden
Chapter 2
The Use of Computer Games in Education: A Review of the Literature.....	29
Thomas Hainey, University of the West of Scotland, Scotland
Thomas Connolly, University of the West of Scotland, Scotland
Mark Stansfield, University of the West of Scotland, Scotland
Liz Boyle, University of the West of Scotland, Scotland
Chapter 3
European Schoolnet's Games in Schools Study: The Current State of Play in European Schools and the Game Ahead	51
Caroline Kearney, European Schoolnet, Belgium
Chapter 4
Learning with Video Games	74
René St-Pierre, Université du Québec à Montréal, Canada

Section 2

Cognitive Approach to Game-Based Learning: Design Patterns and Instructional Design

Chapter 5

- A First Step towards Integrating Educational Theory and Game Design 98
Jan-Paul Staalduin, Delft University of Technology, The Netherlands

Chapter 6

- Classifying Serious Games: The G/p/s Model 118
Damien Djaouti, IRIT - University of Toulouse, France
Julian Alvarez, IRIT - University of Toulouse, France
Jean-Pierre Jessel, IRIT - University of Toulouse, France

Chapter 7

- Game-Based Learning Design Patterns: An Approach to Support
the Development of Better Educational Games 137
Manuel Ecker, University of Education Weingarten, Germany
Wolfgang Müller, University of Education Weingarten, Germany
Johannes Zylka, University of Education Weingarten, Germany

Chapter 8

- I'd Rather be Playing Calculus: Adapting Entertainment Game Structures to Educational Games 153
Monica Evans, The University of Texas at Dallas, USA

Chapter 9

- Game Literacy: Assessing its Value for Both Classification and Public Perceptions of Games in a New Zealand Context 176
Gareth Schott, University of Waikato, New Zealand
Neil Selwyn, London Knowledge Lab, UK

Chapter 10

- Unifying Instructional and Game Design 192
David I. Schwartz, Rochester Institute of Technology, USA
Jessica D. Bayliss, Rochester Institute of Technology, USA

Chapter 11

- A Theoretical Background for Educational Video Games: Games, Signs, Knowledge 215
Nicolas Szilas, University of Geneva, Switzerland
Martin Acosta, Universidad Industrial de Santander, Colombia

Section 3

Psychological Approach to Game-Based Learning: Emotions, Motivation and Engagement

Chapter 12

- ARGuing for Multilingual Motivation in Web 2.0: An Evaluation of a Large-Scale European Pilot..... 240

Thomas Hainey, University of the West of Scotland, Scotland

Thomas Connolly, University of the West of Scotland, Scotland

Mark Stansfield, University of the West of Scotland, Scotland

Liz Boyle, University of the West of Scotland, Scotland

Chapter 13

- Computer Games for Affective Learning..... 261

Claire Dormann, Carleton University, Canada

Jennifer R. Whitson, Carleton University, Canada

Robert Biddle, Carleton University, Canada

Chapter 14

- Motivating by Design: Using Digital-Game Based Learning Techniques to Create an Interesting Problem-Based Learning Environment 283

Paul Toprac, Southern Methodist University, USA

Chapter 15

- Assessing Engagement in Serious Educational Games: The Development of the Student Engaged Learning in a Technology Rich Interactive Classroom (SELTIC) 310

Leonard A. Annetta, North Carolina State University, USA

Richard Lamb, North Carolina State University, USA

Brandy Bowling, North Carolina State University, USA

Rebecca Cheng, North Carolina State University, USA

Chapter 16

- Games that Motivate to Learn: Design Serious Games by Identified Regulations..... 330

Menno Deen, Fontys University of Applied Sciences, The Netherlands

Ben A. M. Shouten, Fontys University of Applied Sciences, The Netherlands

Chapter 17

- Theories of Motivation for Adults Learning with Games..... 352

Nicola Whitton, Manchester Metropolitan University, UK

Chapter 18

- Collaborative Learning in Massively Multiplayer Online Games: A Review of Social, Cognitive and Motivational Perspectives..... 370

Iro Voulgari, University of Patras, Greece

Vassilis Komis, University of Patras, Greece

Chapter 19
How Digital Gaming Enhances Non-Formal and Informal Learning	395
Daniel Aranda, Universitat Oberta de Catalunya, Spain
Jordi Sánchez-Navarro, Universitat Oberta de Catalunya, Spain
Chapter 20
Understanding Serious Gaming: A Psychological Perspective.....	413
Priscilla Haring, VU University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands
Dimitrina Chakinska, VU University of Amsterdam, The Netherlands
Ute Ritterfield, Technical University of Dortmund, Germany
Chapter 21
Using Spatial Audio in Game Technology for Expressing Mathematical Problems to Blind Students.....	431
Flaithri Neff, Limerick Institute of Technology, Ireland
Ian Pitt, University College Cork, Ireland
Chapter 22
Mobile Gaming Environment: Learning and Motivational Effects	467
Namsoo Shin, University of Michigan, USA
Cathleen Norris, University of North Texas, USA
Elliot Soloway, University of Michigan, USA
Chapter 23
Affective Gaming in Education, Training and Therapy: Motivation, Requirements, Techniques.....	482
Eva Hudlicka, Psychometrix Associates, Inc, USA
Chapter 24
Gestural Motivation, Learning and Evaluation Using Interactive Game Design	512
Roman Danylak, Stockholm University, Sweden
 Section 4
User-Centered Approach to Game-Based Learning: Accounting for Users' Differences, Specificities and Disabilities
Chapter 25
Hints for Improving Motivation in Game-Based Learning Environments	530
Jean-Charles Marty, University of Savoie, France
Thibault Carron, University of Savoie, France
Chapter 26
Exploring the Gender Differences between Student Teachers when Using an Educational Game to Learn Programming Concepts.....	550
Eugenia M. W. Ng, The Hong Kong Institute of Education, Hong Kong SAR, China

Chapter 27

- Designing Games to Motivate Student Cohorts through Targeted Game Genre Selection 567
Penny de Byl, Bon University, Australia
Jeffrey E. Brand, Bond University, Australia

Chapter 28

- Game-Based Learning: Current Research in Games for Health, a Focus on Biofeedback Video Games as Treatment for AD/HD 583
Krestina L. Amon, The University of Sydney, Australia
Andrew J. Campbell, The University of Sydney, Australia

Chapter 29

- As You Like It: What Media Psychology Can Tell Us about Educational Game Design..... 606
Stephanie B. Linek, German National Library of Economics (ZBW), Germany

Chapter 30

- Engaging the Un-Engageable 633
John Carr, University of Nottingham, UK
Peter Blanchfield, University of Nottingham, UK

Volume IIChapter 31

- A Reference Architecture for Game-Based Intelligent Tutoring 658
Dennis Maciuszek, University of Rostock, Germany
Alke Martens, University of Rostock, Germany

Chapter 32

- Effective Game Use in Neurorehabilitation: User-Centered Perspectives 683
Joel C. Perry, TECNALIA Research & Innovation, Spain
Julien Andureu, TECNALIA Research & Innovation, Spain
Francesca Irene Cavallaro, TECNALIA Research & Innovation, Spain
Jan Veneman, TECNALIA Research & Innovation, Spain
Stefan Carmien, TECNALIA Research & Innovation, Spain
Thierry Keller, TECNALIA Research & Innovation, Spain

Chapter 33

- Serious Linguistic Games as Intelligent Tutoring Systems 726
Stephen Howel, University College Dublin, Ireland
Tony Veale, University College Dublin, Ireland

Chapter 34
Motivating the Demotivated Classroom: Gaming as a Motivational Medium for Students with Intellectual Disability and Their Educators.....	759
Maria Saridaki, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Greece
Constantinos Mourlas, National and Kapodistrian University of Athens, Greece

Section 5

Curricular Approach to Game-Based Learning: Integrating Video Games in Instructional Settings

Chapter 35
Field Report: Using a Violent Multiplayer Game as a Virtual Classroom for a Course on Violent Video Games.....	777
Wolfgang Bösche, Technische Universität Darmstadt, Germany
Florian Kattner, Technische Universität Darmstadt, Germany

Chapter 36
Students Using Indigenous Knowledge in Video Game Creation to Develop Design Thinking Skills.....	806
Neil Anderson, James Cook University, Australia
Lyn Courtney, James Cook University, Australia

Chapter 37
Integration of Educational Games in Synchronous Virtual Classroom: A Case Study.....	820
Eleni Rossiou, University of Thessaloniki, Greece

Chapter 38
Playful Pedagogies: Cultural and Curricular Approaches to Games-Based Learning in the School Classroom.....	846
Ben Williamson, Futurelab, UK
Richard Sandford, Futurelab, UK

Chapter 39
Game-Based Learning with a Dialogic Teaching Approach: A Case of Deep Learning and the Use of Spore™ in A-level Biology Lessons	860
Wee Hoe Tan, University of Warwick, UK
Sue Johnston-Wilder, University of Warwick, UK
Sean Neill, University of Warwick, UK

Chapter 40
Modifying Commercial Off-the-Shelf (COTS) Games for Use in Education	876
Ryan Flynn, University of Greenwich, UK

Chapter 41

Promoting Sexual Health Education via Gaming: Evidence from the Barrios of Lima, Peru..... 895

*Arul Chib, Nanyang Technological University, SingaporeChapter 42

Developing Educational Games for Engineering Education: A Case Study..... 913

*Vinod Srinivasan, Texas A&M University, USAKaren Butler-Purry, Texas A&M University, USASusan Pedersen, Texas A&M University, USAChapter 43

Developing Video Games for Physics Education 939

*Kostas Anagnostou, Ionian University, GreeceAnastasia Pappa, Alibretto Science Communication and Education, GreeceChapter 44

Practical Applications of Serious Games in Education..... 961

*Helen Axe, PIXE Learning, UKHelen Routledge, PIXE Learning, UKChapter 45Game-Based Learning for Knowledge Sharing and Transfer: The e-Vita Approach for Intergenerational Learning 974*Dimitra Pappa, NCSR Demokritos, GreeceIan Dunwell, Serious Games Institute, UKAristidis Protopsaltis, Serious Games Institute, UKLucia Pannese, Imaginary srl, ItalySonia Hetzner, Friedrich-Alexander-Universität Erlangen-Nürnberg, GermanySara de Freitas, Serious Games Institute, UKGenaro Rebolledo-Mendez, Universidad Veracruzana, MexicoChapter 46

Exploring Educational Video Game Design: Meaning Potentials and Implications for Learning..... 1004

*Anna Akerfeldt, Stockholm University, SwedenStaffan Selander, Stockholm University, SwedenChapter 47Emerging Paradigms in Legal Education: A Learning Environment to Teach Law through Online Role Playing Games 1019*Nicola Lettieri, Institute for Development of Vocational Training, ItalyErnesto Fabiani, Università del Sannio, ItalyAntonella Tartaglia Polcini, Università del Sannio, ItalyRosario de Chiara, Università degli Studi di Salerno, ItalyVittorio Scarano, Università degli Studi di Salerno, Italy*

Chapter 48
Computer Games for Algorithm Learning.....	1036
Sahar Shabanah, King Abdul-Aziz University, Saudi Arabia
Chapter 49
Context-Free Educational Games: Open-Source and Flexible	1064
Vasiliki Dai, Secondary School Teacher of English, Greece
Vasilis Daloukas, Secondary School Teacher of Informatics, Greece
Maria Rigou, University of Patras, Greece
Spiros Sirmakessis, Technological Institute of Mesolonghi, Greece, & Research Academic Computer Technology Institute (R.A. CTI), Greece
Chapter 50
A Study on Whether Digital Games can Effect Spatial Reasoning Skills	1086
Andrea Corradini, University of Southern Denmark, Denmark
Chapter 51
LEADER.edu: Using Interactive Scenario-Based Simulations for Leadership Development	1111
Brent D. Ruben, Rutgers University, USA
Kathleen M. Immordino, Rutgers University, USA
Sherrie Tromp, Rutgers University, USA
Brian Agnew, Rutgers University, USA
Chapter 52
Digital Propensity: An Investigation of Video Game and Information and Communication Technology Practices.....	1148
Boaventura DaCosta, Solers Research Group, USA
Angelique Nasah, Solers Research Group, USA
Carolyn Kinsell, Solers Research Group, USA
Soonhwa Seok, University of Kansas, USA
Compilation of References	1174