

Edible Coatings and Films to Improve Food Quality

SECOND EDITION

EDITED BY
Elizabeth A. Baldwin
Robert Hagenmaier • Jinhe Bai

CRC Press
Taylor & Francis Group

Contents

Preface	vii
The Editors	ix
The Contributors	xi
1 Introduction	1
Elizabeth A. Baldwin and Robert D. Hagenmaier
2 Protein-based films and coatings	13
Maria B. Pérez-Gago
3 Edible coatings from lipids, waxes, and resins	79
David J. Hall
4 Polysaccharide coatings	103
Robert Soliva-Fortuny, María Alejandra Rojas-Graü, and Olga Martín-Belloso
5 Gas-exchange properties of edible films and coatings	137
Robert D. Hagenmaier
6 Role of edible film and coating additives	157
Roberto de Jesús Avena-Bustillos and Tara H. McHugh
7 Coatings for fresh fruits and vegetables	185
Jinhe Bai and Anne Plotto
8 Coatings for minimally processed fruits and vegetables	243
Sharon Dea, Christian Ghidelli, Maria B. Pérez-Gago, Anne Plotto
9 Applications of edible films and coatings to processed foods	291
Tara H. McHugh and Roberto de Jesús Avena-Bustillos

vi Contents

10	Application of commercial coatings	319
	Yanyun Zhao
11	Encapsulation of flavors, nutraceuticals, and antibacterials	333
	Stéphane Desobry and Frédéric Debeaufort
12	Overview of pharmaceutical coatings	373
	Anthony Palmieri III
13	Regulatory aspects of coatings	383
	Guiwen A. Cheng and Elizabeth A. Baldwin
	Index	417