

Contents

|                                                                                                                                 |      |
|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|------|
| Series editor's foreword                                                                                                 | vii  |
| Preface and acknowledgements                                                                                             | viii |
| Contributors                                                                                                             | xi   |
|                                                                                                                             |      |
| Introduction                                                                                                                    | 1    |
| Andrew C. Billings                                                                                                       |      |
|                                                                                                                             |      |
| 1 Keeping Score: Reflections and suggestions forscholarship in sports and media                                             | 7    |
| Walter Gantz                                                                                                             |      |
|                                                                                                                             |      |
| 2 Theorizing the Sports–Television Dream Marriage:Why sports fit television so well                                         | 19   |
| Michael Real                                                                                                             |      |
|                                                                                                                             |      |
| 3 The Power of a Fragmented Collective: Radical pluralistfeminism and technologies of the self in the sportsblogosphere | 40   |
| Marie Hardin                                                                                                             |      |
|                                                                                                                             |      |
| 4 Mocking the Fan for Fun and Profit: Sports dirt, fanshipidentity, and commercial narratives                               | 61   |
| Laurence A. Wenner                                                                                                       |      |

|    |                                                                                                                                                                             |     |
|----|-----------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| 5  | Fair Ball?: Exploring the relationship between media sports and viewer moralityArthur A. Raney                                                                   | 77  |
| 6  | Sports Media: Beyond broadcasting, beyond sports, beyond societies?David Rowe                                                                                    | 94  |
| 7  | Tweets and Blogs: Transformative, adversarial, and integrative developments in sports mediaJimmy Sanderson and Jeffrey W. Kassing                                | 114 |
| 8  | From Analysis to Aggression: The nature of fan emotion, cognition and behavior in Internet sports communitiesLance V. Porter, Chris Wood, and Vincent L. Benigni | 128 |
| 9  | The Less You Say: An initial study of gender coverage in sports on TwitterLauren Reichart Smith                                                                  | 146 |
| 10 | Sport, Identities, and Consumption: The construction of sport at ESPN.comLindsey J. Meán                                                                         | 162 |
| 11 | Reaction Time: Assessing the record and advancing a future of sports media scholarshipAndrew C. Billings                                                         | 181 |
|    | Appendix: Contributions to sports media scholarship: a comprehensive reference list                                                                                  | 191 |
|    | Index                                                                                                                                                                | 209 |