

Contents

1 Introduction: Generative Second Language Acquisition and Language Pedagogy .....	1
Melinda Whong, Kook-Hee Gil, and Heather Marsden
Part I GenSLA Applied to the Classroom
2 What Research Can Tell Us About Teaching: The Case of Pronouns and Clitics .....	17
Joyce Bruhn de Garavito
3 L2 Acquisition of Null Subjects in Japanese: A New Generative Perspective and Its Pedagogical Implications .....	35
Mika Kizu
4 Verb Movement in Generative SLA and the Teaching of Word Order Patterns .....	57
Tom Rankin
5 Modifying the Teaching of Modifiers: A Lesson from Universal Grammar .....	77
David Stringer
6 The Syntax-Discourse Interface and the Interface Between Generative Theory and Pedagogical Approaches to SLA .....	101
Elena Valenzuela and Bede McCormack
Part II GenSLA and Classroom Research
7 Alternations and Argument Structure in Second Language English: Knowledge of Two Types of Intransitive Verbs .....	117
Makiko Hirakawa

8 Quantifiers: Form and Meaning in Second Language Development .....	139
Kook-Hee Gil, Heather Marsden, and Melinda Whong
9 Explicit Article Instruction in Definiteness, Specificity, Genericity and Perception .....	161
Neal Snape and Noriaki Yusa
Part III GenSLA, the Language Classroom, and Beyond
10 Whether to Teach and How to Teach Complex Linguistic Structures in a Second Language .....	187
Roumyana Slabakova and María del Pilar García Mayo
11 Great Expectations in Phonology? Second Language Acquisition Research and Its Relation to the Teaching of Older and Younger Learners .....	207
Martha Young-Scholten
12 Applied Generative SLA: The Need for an Agenda and a Methodology .....	231
Melinda Whong
Index .....	249