

Contents

List of abbreviations	xi
Acknowledgements	xiii
The authors	xv

SECTION 1: EDUCATION STUDIES – AN INTRODUCTION TO THE FIELD OF STUDY

1	What is education studies?	3
	The new ‘education studies’	3
	The traditional disciplines and education studies	8
	Conclusion	10
	Recommended reading	11
2	The nature of education	12
	The meaning of education	12
	Sociological perspectives on the purposes of education	15
	Sociological perspectives on the process of education	21
	Educational ideologies	23
	Conclusion	31
	Recommended reading	33
3	Researching education	34
	Introduction	34
	The nature of research	35
	Purposes of research	44

INTRODUCTION TO EDUCATION STUDIES

Research methodologies	45
Education research/educational research	57
Research movements in education	58
Conclusion	64
Recommended reading	65

SECTION 2: POLITICAL AND HISTORICAL DIMENSIONS OF EDUCATION

4	A modern history of schooling	69
	Introduction	69
	Considerations when studying the history of education	70
	1800–70: towards state education	72
	1870–1902: the first stages of elementary schooling	74
	1902–44: establishment of secondary schools and local education authorities	77
	1944–65: universal secondary education – the tripartite system	79
	The growth of comprehensive schooling (1960s and 1970s)	82
	Major education policy discord of the 1970s – the 1988 Education Reform Act	86
	Conclusion	91
	Recommended reading	93
5	Curriculum	94
	Introduction	94
	The nature of the curriculum	95
	The structure of knowledge	98
	Curriculum frameworks	103
	The National Curriculum: a case study	109
	Conclusion	130
	Recommended reading	131
6	Politics and policy in education	132
	Introduction	132
	Analysing education policy	133
	The beginning of the education market: Conservative, Labour and Coalition administrations	138
	Conservative policy: implementation	141
	Conservative policy: a critique	144
	New Labour policy: ideology and perspectives on education	146
	New Labour policy: implementation	150

New Labour policy: a critique	164
New Labour to New Politics: a coalition government	168
The reforms of the Coalition	169
Conclusion	173
Recommended reading	175
7 Globalisation and comparative education	177
Introduction	177
Definition and development of globalisation	178
Comparative education	182
Conclusion	188
Recommended reading	188
 SECTION 3: ACHIEVEMENT IN EDUCATION
8 Individual achievement: major psychological theories	193
Introduction	193
The influence of philosophy	194
Early psychological ideas	196
Personality theory	200
Motivation	205
Intelligence and creativity	209
Cognitive-developmental theory	212
Cognitive psychology	215
Conclusion	222
Recommended reading	223
 9 Education and psychological research	 225
Introduction	225
Constructivism	226
Social constructivist theories	227
Metacognition	232
Learning styles, strategies, approaches and preferences	234
Situated cognition	242
A theory of learning cultures and a cultural theory of learning	244
Brain function	246
Different views of intelligence	249
Conclusion	251
Recommended reading	252

10	Social factors, gender, ethnicity and achievement	254
	Introduction	254
	The state of educational achievement	255
	Social class and achievement	256
	Gender and achievement	267
	Ethnicity and achievement	279
	Conclusion	289
	Recommended reading	290
11	Organising teaching and learning	292
	Introduction	292
	Grouping pupils for learning	293
	Differentiated learning	298
	Personalised learning	302
	Psychological research and pedagogical developments	305
	Conclusion	310
	Recommended reading	311
12	Conclusion: education – a contested enterprise	312
	Introduction	312
	Theory and practice in education	313
	The breadth of education studies	316
	Conclusion	324
	Bibliography	325
	Index	364