

CONTENTS

About the Editors	xviii
About the Contributors	xx
Acknowledgments	xxx
Foreword	xxxiii
Introduction	xxxvii

PART I. FOUNDATIONS OF SERVICE-LEARNING AND CIVIC ENGAGEMENT

1. Developing Practitioner-Scholars for the Future of Community Engagement	3
Mandi R. McReynolds
What Is a Practitioner-Scholar?	3
Barriers and Solutions	4
Action Plan	8
Conclusion	8
2. A Theory of Practical Beauty for Service-Learning and Public-Engaged Scholarship	11
Marie G. Sandy
A Move Toward Understanding Knowledge as Conversation	11
A Critical-Friendly Reflection on Pragmatism	12
Understanding Phronesis or Practical Wisdom	12
The Case of Phronesis in Service-Learning and in Higher Education	14
Implications for Designing Service-Learning Programs	14
Implications for Public-Engaged Scholarship	15
Conclusion	15
3. Virtue Ethics: Foundation for Civic Engagement and Service-Learning	17
Rodmon King
Background and Literature Review	17
Virtue Ethics, Deontology, and Consequentialism	19
Service-Learning and Virtue Ethics	19
Virtue Ethics in the Classroom	20
Conclusion	20

4. Infusing Ethical Decision Making Into Service-Learning Experiences	23
Lindsay A. Blumer
Background and Review of Literature	23
Current Issues and Controversies	23
Practices and Methods	24
Sidebar 4.1: At Your Core	25
Assessment	25
Sidebar 4.2: Who Are You and What Do Others See	26
Conclusion and Implications	28
Resources	28
5. Epistemologies of Ignorance: Foundation for Community Engagement	31
Karen Frost-Arnold
Literature Review	31
Current Issues in Service-Learning	32
Practices and Methods	33
Conclusion	35
6. An Overview of Academic Community-Based Learning Approaches	37
Omobolade Delano-Oriaran
Related Terminology	37
Partners	39
Diverse Community Settings	41
Conclusion	43
7. Redefining Service-Learning for the Purpose of Social Change Within Education	47
Hoda Farahmandpour and Ilya Shodjaee-Zrudlo
The History and Philosophy of Service-Learning	47
Current Issues and Controversies of Service-Learning	48
Reconceptualizing Service as Twofold in Purpose	49
Service in the Educational Context	50
Conclusion and Further Research	50
8. The Power of Student Activism: Teaching Social Justice in Middle School	53
Kristen Berger and Maiya Jackson
Literature Review	54
The Case for Critical Service-Learning	54
The Activism Project	55
Project Impact	58
Resources	58
9. Critical Service-Learning and Social Justice: A Holistic Curriculum	61
Amy Argenal and Tomás Jacquez
Critical Service-Learning and Social Justice	61
The Urban School of San Francisco	62
The Four-Year Program	62
Conclusion	65

10. Construyendo Comunidad: Developing a Bicultural and Bilingual Framework for Community Building	67
J. Estrella Torrez
Background	68
Current Issues	68
Partners: “Served” and “Server”	68
Challenges	69
Practice	70
Implications	71
Conclusion	72
11. Critical Democratic Citizenship: A Learning Outcome Model to Support Engaging for Justice	75
Cynthia Gordon da Cruz
Precisely Understanding Democracy and Justice	75
The U.S. Context: Racial and Ethnic Injustice	76
Learning Outcomes for Civic Engagement for Justice in a Democracy	77
Implications: Developing and Measuring Students’ Critical Democratic Citizenship	79
Conclusion	80

PART II. USING AND APPLYING CIVIC ENGAGEMENT

12. Attention and Action: The Southwest Florida Paradigm for Community-Engaged Scholarship	85
Brandon W. Kliever, Brandon P. Hollingshead, Jessica J. Rhea, and Courtney Dwyer Satkoski
The Southwest Florida and Florida Gulf Coast University Context for Engagement	85
Theoretical Framework	86
Practical and Applied Framework	88
Action: Project Development and Execution	88
Conclusion	89
Appendix A: IDS 3300 Foundations of Civic Engagement Course Objectives	90
Appendix B: Civic Engagement Project Assignment Sheet	90
13. Common Ground Through Dialogue: Creating Civic Dispositions	93
Darryl Mace, Nancy Watterson, and Nicholas Rademacher
Background/Literature Review	94
Practices and Methods	94
Resources	97
14. Service-Learning, Vocational Exploration-as-Action, and the Call to Civic Engagement	99
Ned Scott Laff and Joyce Fields
The Concept of the Courses	99
Philosophic Underpinning	100
Overview of the Courses	101
The Sophomore Seminar	101
The Junior Seminar	103
Conclusion	105

15. Building Service-Learning Into an Academic Discipline: Urban Civic Education	107
James Mullooly and Steven M. Hart
Service-Learning as an Academic Discipline	107
Complementary Developments of Activism and Discipline Creation in Anthropology and Service-Learning	108
Fresno State's Minor in Urban Civic Education	110
Conclusion	111

PART III. USING AND APPLYING SERVICE-LEARNING

16. The Six Requirements of Service-Learning: A Pathway to High Impact Practices	115
Marie Watkins, Collin Hayes, and Molly Sarubbi
Background	116
Challenge	116
Literature Review	117
Solutions/Methods/Practice Through the Six R's (Requirements)	117
Conclusion and Implications	120
17. Integrating Knowledge Through Academic Service-Learning	123
Scott L. Crabill and Christopher D. Jensen
Challenges Facing Integrative Learning	123
Review of Literature	124
Problem- and Issue-Based Learning	125
Classroom Meets Community	125
Conclusion and Implications	127
18. Service-Learning Policy in Higher Education	129
Margaret Sass
Policy Philosophy	129
Advisory Council	130
Agenda Creation	130
Implementation	131
Professional Development	131
Evaluation	132
Legal Guidelines	132
Future Research	132
Conclusion	133
19. An Institutional Perspective on Relationship-Based Service-Learning	135
Ann Marie Jursca Keffer
Intentional Design of Community Partnerships	135
Saint Joseph's University Community Partnerships	136
Relationship-Based Partnerships: Course Selections in Practice	136
Institutional Support	139
Conclusion	139
20. Connecting Theory to Practice When Studying "Deviant" Populations	141
Helen Rosenberg
The Sociology of Mental Illness	141
The Methodology of Engagement	142

A Case Study in Community-Based Learning	142
Students' Experiences	144
21. Preparing Students to Engage in Research in the Real World: How to Construct a Course in Community-Based Participatory Research	147
Karen Schwartz and Adje van de Sande
Literature Review	147
Definition of Terms	148
Course Preparation and Description	148
Challenges and Solutions	151
Implications and Outcomes for Students and Community	151
Conclusion	152
PART IV. COMMUNITY: ASSETS, RELATIONSHIPS, AND PARTNERSHIPS
22. Finding the Right Partners for Service-Learning Courses	155
Isabel Baca
Background	155
Controversies and Potential Problems	156
Recommendations and Suggested Practices	157
Conclusion and Future Directions	158
Appendix A: Agency Profile Form	159
Appendix B: Sample Agency Profile	159
Appendix C: Service-Learning Agreement	160
Appendix D: Sample Contracts	161
Appendix E: Agency Mentor Evaluation Form	162
Appendix F: Student Evaluation of Agency Mentor and Organization	163
23. Establishing Community Partnerships and Purposeful Projects and Goals	165
Crystal S. Aschenbrener
Benefits of Service-Learning for Nonprofit Organizations	165
Long-Term Volunteer Base and/or Possible Recruitment of Future Employees	166
Possible Obstacles to Consider	167
Building the Partnership With a Nonprofit Organization	168
Conclusion	170
24. P-16 Service-Learning Partnerships: A Model for Success	171
Julie Dierberger
Background, History, and Literature Review	171
Current Issues and Controversies	172
Practices and Methods	173
Sidebar 24.1: Sample Schedule and Daily Goals	173
Implications	176
Assessment	176
Conclusions, Future Directions, and Suggestions for Future Research	177
25. Neighborhood Art Hives: Engaging Communities in Teaching and Learning	179
Janis Timm-Bottos and Rosemary C. Reilly
The Community Art Studio/Storefront Classroom: An Interstitial Space	179

The Example: CATS 631/ARTE 398 Community Art Studio: Methods and Materials	181
Conclusion: Neighborhood Art Hives for CESL	183
Resources	184
26. Community Assets and Individual Expertise: Educating Future Professionals Through Community Service-Learning	185
Leela Viswanathan
Context: Community-University Partnerships in Service-Learning	186
Review of Literature: Service-Learning and Professional Education	186
Course Design and Methods in Service-Learning for Professional Planning Education	186
Implications and Future Directions	188
Resources	189
27. The Need for a Paradigm Shift in Community-Based Learning Partnerships to Evaluate Community Impacts	191
Elizabeth Tryon, Marian Slaughter, and J. Ashleigh Ross
Background, History, and Literature Review	192
Current Issues in Prioritizing Community Impacts in CBL Projects	193
Current Models for Evaluating Impact of CBL	195
Future Directions and Suggestions for Further Research	196
Resources	197
PART V. BUSINESS AND MANAGEMENT
28. Getting Beyond Service-Learning Myths in Management Education	201
Jason C. Senjem
Challenges to Management Education	201
Service-Learning Myths in Management Education	202
Service-Learning Conceptual Models as Solutions	202
Sidebar 28.1: Knight Owl Project Grading Sheet	203
Sidebar 28.2: Sustainable Business Project Guidelines	205
Conclusion and Implications	206
Resources	206
29. BITS: A College-Library Partnership	209
John Shepherd and Allan Wilson
Background and History	209
Literature Review	210
Community Learning Projects in Practice	210
Conclusion and Implications	213
Appendix A: Business Analysis Project Charter	213
30. Service-Learning and Business: A Student's Perspective	215
Diana E. Kolar
Discovering Business Success Beyond the Traditional Model	215
Case for Service-Learning for All Business Students	216
Service-Learning and the Development of Three Critical Types of Skills	218
Serving to Cultivate Civic-Minded, Savvy, and Successful Business Professionals	222

PART VI. THE HUMANITIES

31. Integrating Service-Learning Into a University Modern Languages Program	227
E. Nicole Meyer
Service-Learning	227
Role of Service-Learning in World Language Programs	228
Intersection of Theory and Practice	228
Lessons Learned	230
Advantages and Challenges	230
Conclusion	231
32. Performing Arts and Community Exchange	233
Janna L. Goodwin and Amie Dowling
A Role for Performing Arts in Violence Prevention	233
Review of Literature	234
The Course	234
Assessment Considerations and Methods	236
Conclusion	237
Resources	237
33. Everyman, Service-Learning, and Collaboration	239
Dana E. Aspinall
Medieval Conceptions of Community Building and Service-Learning Today	239
Service-Learning in Practice: Performing Everyman	241
Student Reactions: Rewards, Challenges, and New Views	242
34. Infusing Service-Learning Collaborations in Music Education	245
Lois Veenhoven Guderian
Background	245
Institutional Commitment to Service-Learning	247
Department Approach to Service-Learning	247
Service-Learning Program Principles	249
Students' Reflections and Evaluations	250
Conclusion	251
Appendix A: ASL Syllabus for Music 386 (Sample of ASL Syllabus as Aligned to Course Goals)	252
35. Art in Service-Learning: Connecting Art and Community	257
Sophia Suk-mun Law
The Service-Learning Research Scheme (SLRS)	257
Connecting Theory to Practice: Infusing Service-Learning Into Art	258
SLRS Outcomes	260
Conclusion	261

PART VII. THE SCIENCES, TECHNOLOGY, ENGINEERING, AND MATHEMATICS

36. Cultivating the Sciences With Service-Learning at a Regional University	265
Kristin Riker-Coleman, Michelle Arnhold, Nicholas P. Danz, and Randy Gabrys-Alexson
Integrating Service-Learning in Science Coursework	265
Service-Learning With a Regional Focus	266
Conclusion	268

37. Pedagogical Techniques in the Health Sciences	271
Elias Mpofu, Martin Mackey, Syeda Zakia Hossain, Reinie Cordier, Michael Millington, and Sarah Wilkes-Gillan
Goals and Processes of Service-Learning in the Health Sciences	271
The Role of Service-Learning in the Health Sciences	272
Current Issues and Controversies	272
Practices and Methods	273
Illustrative Interdisciplinary Service-Learning in the Health Sciences	273
Examples of Health Sciences Discipline Service-Learning	275
Conclusion	277
Resources	277
38. Implementing Service-Learning in Doctor of Audiology Curriculum	279
Carol G. Cokely, Linda M. Thibodeau, and Jackie L. Clark
Audiologic Rehabilitation for Adults (AUD 6316)	280
Aural Habilitation for Children With Hearing Impairments (AUD 7326)	282
Intensive Auditory Rehabilitation for Adult Hearing Loss (AUD 7325)	282
Experiential Service-Learning Through Humanitarian Programs (COMD 7v98)	283
Conclusion	284
Appendix A: AUD 6316 Service-Learning Agreement	285
39. Service-Learning and Deaf Studies in the Community	287
Sheryl B. Cooper and Jody H. Cripps
Service-Learning in Deaf Studies	287
Social Services in the Deaf Community	288
Meeting the Challenges of Service-Learning	289
Reciprocity in Service-Learning	290
Research on Service-Learning in Deaf Studies	290
Conclusion	291
Appendix A: Abridged Syllabus for Social Service in the Deaf Community	292
40. Engineering History: Service-Learning at a Non-Liberal Arts University	295
Michael H. Carriere
Setting the Stage: The University Scholars Program Curriculum	296
From Learning to Doing: Service-Learning and the University Scholars Program	296
Bringing it All Together: Urban Growing With Career Youth Development	297
Building Reciprocity: The Benefits of Service-Learning for All Participants	298
A Developing Alliance: The Liberal Arts and the STEM Disciplines in the 21st Century	299
Resources	299
41. Integrating Technology With Service-Learning	301
Tim Krause
Challenges Sustaining Service-Learning Programs	301
Review of Literature	302
Project and Time Management	302
Communication	303
Document Management and Sharing	304

Program and Project Assessment	304
Sidebar 41.1: Survey of Partner Organizations	305
Sidebar 41.2: Self and Peer Review of Student Work	305
Conclusion and Implications	305
Resources	305
42. Undergraduate Technocrats: Educating Future Scientists to Become Citizens	307
Ruth Cronje and Laurelyn Sandkamp
Expanded Democracy: Boyte's Citizen Solution Approach	307
The Pilot Course	308
Conclusion	310
Appendix A: Pesticide Justice Case	311
Appendix B: What Are Good Reasons Lesson	312
PART VIII. THE SOCIAL SCIENCES
43. Opportunity for Early Service-Learning in Teacher Education	317
Reid Richard Riggle and Nancy Mathias
The Partners	317
The Psychology for Teaching Course	318
The Village Project Model	320
Conclusion	322
44. Lessons From Preservice Teachers: Under the Surface of Service-Learning in Teacher Education	325
Jonathan C. Dooley and Terry J. Burant
Theoretical Perspectives	325
About the Study	326
Findings	326
Conclusion and Implications	330
45. Dismantling the Perceived Hierarchy: A Shared Intellectual Endeavor Between Faculty and Student Affairs	333
Tynisha D. Meidl and Jennifer Garrett Nissen
The Role of Academic Service-Learning at a Mission-Driven Institution	334
Sidebar 45.1: Course Goals	335
Sidebar 45.2: Knowledge, Skills, and Dispositions	335
Sidebar 45.3: TRIPS Program Goals	336
Sidebar 45.4: Trip Leader Learning Outcomes	337
Sidebar 45.5: Trip Leader Responsibilities	338
Evidence of Success	338
Sidebar 45.6: Ten Tips for Effective Facilitation	339
Sidebar 45.7: Reflection Guide	340
Conclusion	341
46. Early Childhood Service-Learning Mentors: Promoting Student Leadership	343
Mary Jane Eisenhower
Service-Learning in Early Childhood Teacher Education	343
Review of Literature	344
The Service-Learning Student Leadership Model in Practice	345

Opportunities for Leadership	347
Looking Ahead: Issues to Explore	349
Conclusion	349
Critical Service-Learning: Implications for Social Emotional Development	351
Cassandra McKay-Jackson and Annette Johnson
Social Emotional Development	351
School Social Work	351
Service-Learning and Critical Service-Learning	352
Implementing a CSL Project	353
Implications	355
Conclusion	355
PART IX. INTERNATIONAL SERVICE-LEARNING AND COMPARATIVE AND INTERNATIONAL PERSPECTIVES
48. Dialectics of Power and Resistance: Service-Learning in International Contexts	359
Shenila Khoja-Moolji and Shirin Karsan
Drexel University's weServe	360
Dialectics of Power and Resistance	360
The Desiring Social Change Agents	361
Conclusion	363
49. The Affective-Cognitive Model of Reflection: International Service-Learning in Community Development	365
Antoinette R. Smith-Tolken and Jacob M. J. du Plessis
Review of Literature	366
Integrating the Affective-Cognitive Model Into the Course Syllabus	368
Research Process and Analysis	369
Findings	370
Framework for Understanding Emotions During Reflection	370
Conclusion	372
Appendix A: Certificate Program Framework	373
Appendix B: Two Generic Questions and Broad Themes and Instructions for Weekly Reflection Journals	376
50. From Wisconsin to Ghana and Back Again: Service-Learning and the First Grade	379
Marguerite W. Penick-Parks and Suzanne Fondrie
Challenges Facing Rural Districts	380
Review of Literature	380
Responding to School Needs: Multicultural Education and Service-Learning	380
Conclusion and Implications	383
Resources	384
51. England's Citizenship Education Experiment: Active Citizenship or Service?	387
Lee Jerome
Service-Learning	387
Education for Active Citizenship	388
Service-Learning and Education for Active Citizenship Compared	389
What's the Problem With Service-Learning in the English Context?	391

PART X. SUSTAINABILITY: LESSONS LEARNED AND FUTURE DIRECTIONS

52. Holistic Partnerships: Sustainability, Learned Lessons, and Future Directions	395
Walter W. Cannon and Cheri Doane
Current Issues and Controversies	395
Problems and Solutions	396
Practices and Methods for Holistic Partnerships: An Institutional Model	396
Exemplary Course: English 344: Writing for Nonprofit Organizations	399
Conclusion	399
53. Situating Engagement in Canadian Higher Education	401
Heather McRae
A Snapshot of Influences on Community-Engagement Approaches in Canada	401
The Case for Institutionalizing Engagement	402
Guidelines for Institutionalizing Engagement	402
Frameworks for Guiding the Institutionalization Process	403
Organizational Models for Situating Community Engagement	404
Coordinating Mechanisms for Engagement	405
Institutionalizing Engagement at the University of Victoria	405
Networks as a Unifying Force	406
Conclusion	406
54. Department-Driven Strategies for Sustaining Service-Learning and Community Engagement	409
Lois-Ann Kuntz and Meghan Wilson Duff
Department-Level Strategies for Sustainability	409
Sustaining Community Partnerships	412
Administratively Supporting the Anchoring of SL/CE Across Campus	413
Conclusion: Community Engaged Departments Are Worth the Effort	413
Resources	413
55. Both Sides of the Fence: Community as Colleague	417
Carol Wickersham
The Problem	417
Perspectives From Each Side of the Fence	418
An Initial Experiment With Campus and Community Collegiality	421
Challenges and Opportunities	421
56. Community Engagement in Education: A Cautionary Tale	423
Sarah Edwards and Nancy Edick
Background and History	423
Current Issues and Controversies	424
Implications	425
Conclusion, Future Directions, and Suggestions for Further Research	426
Resources	426
57. Service-Learning as Civic Pedagogy: Lessons Learned From Students' Stories	429
Keith E. Robinder
Understanding the Dimensions of Civic Responsibility	429
Exploring and Understanding the Lived Experiences of Service-Learners	430

Lessons Learned	430
Implications for Service-Learning Practice	433
Conclusion	434
58. Relational Approach to Co-Constructed Risk Management	435
Lina D. Dostilio and Kate A. Molchan
Current Approaches to Risk Management	435
Relational Approach	437
Conclusion and Implications	440
Appendix A. Resource Guide	443
Appendix B. Glossary	449
Index	453