

Contents

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	xi
What is a university essay and why does it exist?	xi
What to expect from this book	xii
How to use this book	xii
Who this book is for	xiii
Some words of encouragement and warning	xiii
Chapter 1 Understanding the Purpose of University Essays	1
Introduction	1
Understanding essays in the university context	1
Marking criteria	3
Different types of essays: the research essay, the reflective essay and the exam essay	3
Who your marker is and why thinking about this matters	6
Conclusion	7
Chapter 2 Critical Thinking	8
Introduction	8
Being knowledgeable	9
Having understanding	9
Being sceptical	10
Recognising and working with patterns	10
Making logical arguments (using reasoning)	11
Using evidence	13
Being systematic	14
Being efficient	15
Being consistent	15
Being flexible	15
Being independent	16

Being self-aware	16
Being principled	16
But what can I do to think critically?	18
Conclusion	20
Chapter 3 Engaging with Others' Work: The Fundamentals	21
Introduction	21
Plagiarism	21
The quality and quantity of sources	24
The mechanics of integrating sources	26
Integrating figures and tables	33
Conclusion	34
Chapter 4 How Others' Work Can Help You Develop Your Arguments	35
Introduction	35
Eight approaches for integrating others' work into your arguments	35
Sounds good, but I'm struggling to use all these approaches!	41
Analysing a student paragraph	42
Conclusion	44
Chapter 5 Academic Writing Style, Grammar and Layout	46
Introduction	46
Academic writing style	46
Grammar	56
Layout	62
Conclusion	63
Chapter 6 The Essay Question	64
Introduction	64
Answer the question, the whole question and nothing but the question	64
Sometimes there is not a straightforward question	69
Select/devise a question that will allow you to demonstrate knowledge and understanding of your subject	70
Select/devise a question that will allow you to demonstrate critical thinking	71

Teachers sometimes inadvertently produce ambiguous questions	72
Be prepared to challenge the question	72
Copy the question correctly	73
Use the language of the question in your response	74
Conclusion	77
Chapter 7 Structure and Signposting	78
Introduction	78
Why does structure matter?	78
Generic macro structure: introduction, body and conclusion	79
The skeleton of your essay	79
Signposting	85
Conclusion	87
Chapter 8 Essay Introductions	88
Introduction	88
The orientation	89
The thesis	95
The outline	101
Final points about introductions	101
Complete introductions	102
Conclusion	104
Chapter 9 Rules for Writing Body Paragraphs	106
Introduction	106
Ensure the content of the paragraph is relevant and useful	106
Be mindful that your paragraphs are not too short or too long	107
Have the general paragraph structure of topic sentence(s) followed by elaboration	108
Ensure there is a logical flow within your paragraphs and signpost this with transition signals	110
Include concluding sentences when appropriate	112
Be cautious when including others' words or ideas in your topic sentences	113
Ensure there is only one point per paragraph	115
Avoid unnecessary repetition between and within paragraphs	117
Maintain a good balance between your voice and others' voices	117
Conclusion	118

Chapter 10	Different Body Paragraph Structures	120
Introduction		120
The functions and structures of paragraphs		120
Analysis of paragraph structures		122
Conclusion		127
Chapter 11	Essay Conclusions	128
Introduction		128
Why conclusions? Comparing essays with reports of empirical research		128
What should appear in a conclusion?		129
What should not appear in a conclusion?		130
What language should be used in conclusions?
Tense and signposting		131
Conclusion		133
Chapter 12	Analysing Complete Essays	134
Introduction		134
A weaker essay		134
A stronger essay		142
Appendix: Answers to activities		153
Sources Consulted		168
Index		170