International Yearbook of Library and Information Management

2002–2003

the digital factor in library and information services

iylim INTERNATIONAL YEARBOOK OF LIBRARY AND INFORMATION MANAGEMENT

general editor
G E Gorman

Contents

Editorial Advisory Board 2002/2003 vii
About the contributors x
Introduction xiv

Part 1 In Praise of the Digital Revolution? 1
1 The spectrum of digital objects in the library and beyond 3
Marilyn Deegan
2 Digital versus print issues 26
Lorna Peterson

Part 2 Institutional Models and Finance 45
3 New models of the library in a digital era 47
Peter Brophy
4 The economic opportunities and costs of developing digital libraries and resources 68
Simon Tanner

Part 3 Books and 'Readers' 89
5 Reading in a digital age 91
Catherine Sheldrick Ross
6 Judging a book by its cover: e-books, digitization and print on demand 112
Shirley Hyatt
7 The digital library and younger users 133
Denice Adkins

Part 4 Reference Services 157

8 Web-based reference services: design and implementation decisions 159
Stephen M. Mutula

9 Web-based reference services: the user–intermediary interaction perspective 185
Sherry Shiuan Su

10 Digital library initiatives for academic teaching and learning: towards a managed information environment for online learning 208
Judith Clark

11 It's just a click away, or is it? The challenge of implementing a global information network 236
Diane Kresh

Part 5 Collection Management 259

12 Evaluating digital collections 261
Alastair G. Smith

13 Creating content together: an international perspective on digitization programmes 282
David Dawson

Part 6 Standards and Technology 303

14 Making sense of metadata: reading the words on a spinning top 305
Daniel G. Dorner

15 Beyond today's search engines 340
Christopher Brown-Syed

16 Are we information providers or the information police? The uneasy marriage between access and security 361
Shadrack Katuu

Index 379