

SANDRA LEE MCKAY

Teaching English as an International Language

CONTENTS

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction	1
1 English as an international language	5
Defining an international language	5
Numbers of users and official recognition	5
Features of an international language	11
Reasons for the spread of English	15
Factors that may impede the spread of English	19
Negative effects of the spread of English	20
Summary	24
Further reading	25
2 Bilingual users of English	27
Defining a native speaker	28
Bilingual users of English	32
Bilingual users of English in Inner Circle countries	34
Bilingual users of English in Outer Circle countries	35
Bilingual users of English in Expanding Circle countries	37
Redefining English as an International Language	38
Problems of using a native speaker model in research	39
Bilingual teachers of English	41
Summary	45
Further reading	46
3 Standards for English as an international language	49
Language standards and English as an international language	49
The debate over standards in English as an international language	50
Defining Standard English	51
The question of intelligibility	52
Language change and varieties of English	53
Attitudes toward varieties of English	54
Distinctive linguistic features of varieties of English	58
Lexical variation	60
Grammatical variation	62
Phonological variation	69

Pragmatic and rhetorical standards in English as an international language	72
Pragmatic competence	73
Rhetorical competence	76
Summary	78
Further reading	79
 4 Culture in teaching English as an international language	 81
The role of culture in language teaching	82
Rationales for culture learning	84
Cultural content in language teaching materials	88
Target culture materials	88
Source culture materials	90
International target culture materials	91
A reflective approach to cultural content	93
The role of culture in discourse communities	97
Summary	99
Further reading	100
 5 Teaching methods and English as an international language	 103
A culture of learning	104
The spread of English and communicative language teaching	107
Challenges to the use of communicative language teaching	111
Toward an appropriate methodology for English as an international language	116
Summary	121
Further reading	122
 Conclusion: rethinking goals and approaches	 125
Toward a comprehensive theory of teaching and learning
English as an International Language	125
Teaching goals for English as an International Language	127
Approaches to the teaching of English as an International Language	128
 Glossary	 131
Bibliography	135