

Creating Better Cities with Children and Youth

A MANUAL FOR PARTICIPATION

DAVID DRISKELL in collaboration with members of the Growing Up in Cities Project

Contents

Foreword	11
Introductory Note	13
About this Manual	17
About the Growing Up in Cities Project	19

1 First Steps

Starting Points	22
What Makes a City a Good Place for Young People?	24
Is My City a Good Place for Young People?	26
Self-Evaluation of Your City as a Place for Young People	27

2 Young People's Participation

What is Participation?	32
The Benefits of Young People's Participation	35
The Emerging Global Policy Framework: A Call for Participation and Action	36
Changing Attitudes about Young People's Participation	37
Making Young People's Participation Real	40

3 Organizing a Project

Project Checklist	48
Project Coordinating Team	51
Goals, Opportunities and Constraints	52
Site Selection	55
Child and Youth Participants	56
Extending the Participatory Process to Children with Special Needs	58
Stakeholder Assessment	60
Logistics: Staffing, Scheduling and Funding	61

4

Designing the Process

The Participatory Planning Process	66
Designing a Process	69
Developing a Process Flow-Chart	72
Choosing and Customising Participation Methods	76
Developing a Project Start-up Plan	78

5

Getting Under Way

Organizing and Training Project Staff	80
Working with Young People	87
Ethical Issues	91
Keeping Things Organized	94

6

Participation Toolkit

Informal Observations and 'Hanging Out'	99
Interviews	103
Drawings	115
Daily Activity Schedules	118
Family and Support Networks	121
Role Play, Drama and Puppetry	124
Guided Tours	127
Photographs by Young People	130
Behaviour Mapping	134
Questionnaires and Surveys	139
Focus Groups and Small-Group Discussions	147
Workshops and Community Events	154

Making Change Happen

Analysing the Results	162
Planning for Change	166
Taking Action	170
Monitoring and Reflection	173
Moving Forward	176

Appendices

Appendix A: Data Collection Guidelines	177
Appendix B: Resources	195
Index	207