

SECOND EDITION

SEEKING MEANING

A PROCESS APPROACH TO
LIBRARY AND INFORMATION SERVICES

Carol Collier Kuhlthau

Contents

List of Illustrations	xi
Preface	xiii
Introduction	xv
Chapter 1: The Constructive Process in Library and Information Science Theory	1
Theoretical Foundations of Library and Information Services.	1
Toward an Understanding of the User's Perspective on Information Seeking	3
Cognitive Process in Information Seeking	5
Affective Experience in Information Seeking.	6
Anxiety and Uncertainty in Information Seeking	7
Uncertainty Principle	8
Theory to Practice	8
Chapter 2: Learning As a Process	13
John Dewey: A Philosophical and Historical Perspective	14
George Kelly: A Psychological Perspective	17
Jerome Bruner: An Integrated Perspective	21
Summary of the Constructive Process	25
Kelly's Phases of Construction and Taylor's Levels of Information Need.	26
Chapter 3: The Information Search Process	29
Application of Methods in Library and Information Services.	30
A Qualitative Beginning	31
Analysis of Qualitative Data	37
Patterns in the Constructive Process of Information Seeking	38
An Emerging Model	40
Criteria for Making Decisions	42
Strategies, Expectations, and Attitudes	43
Model of the Information Search Process	44
Summary of Major Findings	51

Chapter 4: Verification of the Model of the Information Search Process.	53
Hypothesis for Further Study: A Model	53
Large-Scale Verification	54
Study of Diverse Sample of High School Seniors	54
Study of the Search Process of Academic, Public, and School Library Users	58
Differences Among the Groups Studied	67
Major Findings and Implications	68
Chapter 5: Longitudinal Confirmation of the Information Search Process	71
Longitudinal Verification	72
Perceptions of Information Seeking After Five Years	75
Longitudinal Case Studies	77
Summary of Case Study Findings	81
Verification and Expansion of the Model of the Information Search Process	81
Major Findings and Implications for Mediation	84
Emerging Theory of a Process Approach to Information Seeking	86
Chapter 6: Uncertainty Principle	89
Personal Construct Theory As an Example of Theory Building	91
Uncertainty Principle	91
Process Corollary	92
Formulation Corollary	94
Redundancy Corollary	96
Mood Corollary	98
Prediction Corollary	100
Interest Corollary	101
Summary of the Uncertainty Principle and Corollaries	103
From Uncertainty to Understanding	105
Chapter 7: Roles of Mediators in the Process of Information Seeking.	107
Users' Perception of the Role of Mediators	107
The Role of Formal Mediators	109
Call for Formal Mediators in the Process of Information Seeking	110
Providing Information for the Process of Construction	111
Levels of Mediation	114
Levels of Education	120
Chapter 8: Zones of Intervention in the Process of Information Seeking.	127
Intervention Based on an Uncertainty Principle	127
The Concept of a Zone of Intervention	128
Zones of Intervention	129
Levels of Mediation and Education in the Zones of Intervention	131
Studies Indicate a Need for Process Intervention	132
The Counselor in the Information Search Process	133
Strategies for Intervening in the Information Search Process	134
Process-Oriented Library and Information Services	143

Chapter 9: Implementing the Process Approach	145
Information Search Process in Education	145
Library Media Programs Based on the Process Approach	146
Implementing the Information Search Process in Schools	148
Information Search Process Institutes	148
Large-Scale Study of Implementation of a Process Approach	155
A Closer Look at Three Schools	159
A Process Approach for the Information Age School	163
Chapter 10: Information Search Process in the Workplace	165
Studies of Information Use in the Workplace	166
Information Search Process of a Securities Analyst:
A Longitudinal Case Study	167
Information Search Process of Lawyers:
An Exploratory Study	175
Potential Roles for Librarians in the Information
Search Process of Information Workers	187
Chapter 11: Process-Oriented Library and Information Services	189
Longitudinal Methods for Developing Conceptual Frameworks	190
The Information Search Process As a Conceptual Framework	193
Criteria for Choices in the Information Search Process	195
A Principle of Uncertainty As a Conceptual Framework	199
Levels of Library and Information Services	201
Diagnosing for a Zone of Intervention	202
Developing a Process Approach	202
Application in Library and Information Services	207
Challenges for Information System Designers	208
Developing Services and Systems for the Information Age	209
References	211
Subject Index	221
Author/Title Index	241