

PRACTICAL COPYRIGHT

for information professionals

THE CILIP HANDBOOK

Sandy Norman

Contents

Preface xi

The Copyright and Related Rights Regulations 2003: relevant changes xi

Acknowledgements xiii

1 Copyright basics 1

What is copyright? 1

Economic rights 1

- The reproduction right 2
- The right to publish 2
- Rental and lending rights 2
- Performance rights 2
- Communication to the public right 2
- Adaptation right 2

Moral rights 3

- The right of paternity 3
- The right of integrity 3
- False attribution 3
- The right of disclosure 4

Obtaining copyright protection 4

Works protected by copyright and related rights and their definitions 4

- Literary, dramatic and musical works 5
- Databases 5
- Artistic works 5
- Typographic arrangement of published editions 6
- Sound recordings 6
- Films 6
- Broadcasts 6

What is not protected by copyright 7

The first owners of copyright 7

- Works created under the terms of an employment contract 8

The length of the copyright term 8

- Literary, dramatic, musical and artistic works 9
- Sound recordings 11
- Films 12
- Broadcasts 12
- Typographical arrangement 12
- Publication right 12
- Crown and Parliamentary copyright, and copyright in certain international organizations 12
- Database right 13

Other IP rights 13

- Publication right 13
- Database right 14
- Trademarks 14
- Patents 14
- Designs 15

Ten things to remember from this chapter 15

2 Exceptions and limitations: statutory permissions to copy 16

What is meant by statutory permissions to copy 16

The main exceptions relevant to information professionals 17

- Important changes to note 17
- Making temporary copies 18
- Fair dealing 18
- Copying by librarians and archivists 20
- Exceptions for education 26
- Computer programs: permitted acts 29
- Databases: permitted acts 30
- Parliamentary and judicial proceedings exception 31

Copying by and for visually impaired persons 31

- Individual VIPs 32
- The multiple-copy exception 33

Other relevant exceptions 33

- Copying abstracts 33
- Incidental inclusion 33
- Royal Commission or statutory inquiry 34
- Public inspection 34
- Anonymous or pseudonymous works 34
- Reading in public 34
- Advertising art works for sale 34

- Playing of sound recordings in clubs 35
- Off-air recording for time-shifting purposes 35
- Photograph of a broadcast 35
- Free public showing or playing of a broadcast 35
- Sculptures, buildings and works of artistic craftsmanship on public display 36

Ten things to remember from this chapter 36

3 Public lending 37

Rental and lending legislation 37

- Definition of rental 37
- Definition of lending 37
- The need for authorization for lending and renting 38
- Exceptions to lending right 38

Public library lending 39

- The lending of books and other printed matter 39
- Lending music sound recordings 39
- Lending spoken-word material 41
- Lending films (videocassettes and DVDs) 42
- Lending computer software 43
- Lending mixed media (books with discs) 43
- Lending CD-ROMs 43
- Lending music scores and maps 44

Ten things to remember from this chapter 44

4 Copyright compliance: statutory solutions 45

The need for authorization before copying 45

Tests of fairness 46

- Step 1: authorization 46
- Step 2: purpose 46

Statutory copying and use: suggested guidance on keeping within limits 49

- Scanning considerations 49
- Published works 50
- Unpublished works 51
- Computer programs 51
- Databases 51
- Articles from journals or periodicals 53
- Artistic works 54
- Printed music 57
- Sound recordings, films and broadcasts 58

The web/internet 60

Local studies material 62

Miscellaneous advice and guidance 64

Advertisements 64

Committee papers 64

Company reports 65

Copyright-cleared workbooks in schools 66

Copying for students in public libraries 66

Current awareness bulletins and document supply 66

Electoral registers in public libraries 67

Foreign material 68

Free material 68

Knitting patterns 68

Translations 68

Training courses 69

Ten things to remember from this chapter 69

5 Copyright compliance: contractual solutions 70

The need to clear rights 70

Clearing rights in works 71

Contracts and licences 74

Negotiating contracts and licences 74

The need for a licence 75

Consortia licensing 75

Cheaper deals? 76

Contract v. statute law 76

Parties bound by contract 76

Access required? 77

Material to be covered by the licence 77

What are the authorized uses? 77

Shrink-wrap and online end-user licences 78

Implied contracts and prohibitive statements 78

Unlawful contractual restrictions 79

Copyright waivers 79

Crown copyright review 79

Crown copyright waiver 80

Parliamentary copyright waiver 81

The Official Journal of the EU 83

Web copyright notices 83

Ten things to remember from this chapter 84

6 Copyright compliance: licensing solutions 86

The importance of licensing 86

- Certified schemes 87
- Benefits of having a licence 87
- The role of the licensing body 88

Book, journal and periodical licensing: The Copyright Licensing Agency 89

- The licence 90
- CLA standard limits on copying 90
- Coverage and excluded works and categories 90
- Normal obligations of the licensee 91
- Indemnity 91
- The CLARCS licence 91
- CLA digitization licences 92

CLA sectoral licensing 92

- Licences for publicly funded bodies 93
- The business licences 95
- The education licences 97
- Licensing scheme for visually impaired persons 102
- Transactional licences 102

Newspaper Licensing Agency licensing schemes 104

- Types of licence and the fee tariff 104
- British Standards Institution licence 108

Visual image licensing 108

- DACS 108
- Future schemes for digitization of visual images 109
- Ordnance Survey 110

Music licensing for visually impaired persons 113

Off-air recording licensing schemes 113

- The ERA licence 113
- The Open University licence 114

Performance licensing 115

- Playing music in public 115
- Playing videos in public 115

Other available licences 116

- Computer software 116
- Licences for downloading and copying music 116
- HMSO Class Licence 116
- Collective worship licensing schemes 116

Ten things to remember from this chapter 117

7 Infringement, liability, disputes and case law 118Infringement 118

Primary infringement 118

Secondary infringement 119

Injunctions against service providers 120Other forms of infringement 120

Passing off 120

Plagiarism 121

Remedies for infringement 121

New EU proposals on harmonizing penalties for infringement 122

The copyright police 122

Avoiding liability 123

Copying machines 123

Users in public libraries 124

Students 124

Staff 124

The importance of a copyright policy 125The Copyright Tribunal 126*Circumvention of technical protection systems and rights management systems 127

Technical protection systems 127

Remedies where technological measures prevent permitted acts 127

Rights management systems 128

Disputes and case law 129

Copying images 129

Copying books and periodicals 130

Copying newspapers 130

Licensing disputes 131

Crown copyright 133

Electoral registers 134

Computer software 134

Databases 135

Technical protection systems 135

Downloading and file sharing 136

Ten things to remember from this chapter 137

8 International and European copyright 138

The Berne Convention 138

Berne principles 139

The Universal Copyright Convention 140

Conventions on neighbouring rights 140

The Rome Convention 140

The Phonogram Convention 141

The WIPO and WIPO Treaties 141

The WIPO Standing Committee of Experts 141

WIPO treaties 142

The WTO and TRIPS 143

European Union harmonization 143

Computer programs 144

Term of protection 144

Rental and lending 144

Databases 145

The Copyright Directive 145

Beyond Europe 148

USA 148

Australia 151

South Africa 152

Ten things to remember from this chapter 154

9 Case studies and frequently asked questions 155

Prescribed library or not? 155

Commercial research or not? 155

Current awareness 156

Electronic signatures 156

Reading onto tapes 157

Making compilations from ERA recordings 158

Downloading music 159

Previewing videos and DVDs in a public library 160

Copyright term of manuscripts 160

Networking local studies material 161

10 Learning more about copyright 164

Working for the profession: lobbying activities 164

LACA 164

CILIP 165

Museums Copyright Group 166

EFPICC UK 166

EBLIDA 166

IFLA 167

Statutory material on copyright and related issues 167

International copyright treaty publications 168

Information on the web 169

Discussion list 169

References and further reading 170

Archives 170

Australian copyright 170

Copyright clearance in the higher education sector 170

Crown copyright 170

Deep linking 170

Enforcement 170

General 170

Licensing 171

Music 171

South African copyright 171

US copyright 171

Visually impaired persons 171

Training courses 171

Glossary of acronyms and selected terms 173

Appendix A

Prescribed copyright declaration form for published works 176

Appendix B

Prescribed copyright declaration form for unpublished works 177

Appendix C

Organization contact details 178

Index 181