

An abstract graphic in shades of blue and white. It features several overlapping circles and lines, some of which are thicker and more prominent than others, creating a sense of depth and movement. The circles vary in size and opacity, with some appearing as solid blue shapes and others as thin outlines. The overall composition is dynamic and modern, typical of a book cover design.

E-LEARNING STRATEGIES

HOW TO GET IMPLEMENTATION AND DELIVERY RIGHT FIRST TIME

DON MORRISON

Contents

---

Acknowledgements	ix
Introduction	xi
Part I E-learning primer	1
1 Defining terms: Get comfortable with e-learning	3
2 The new learning landscape: E-learning is here to stay	41
3 ROI, metrics, and evaluation: How can we tell if we're getting it right?	52
4 The e-learning cycle: Once is not enough	84
Part II Learning strategy	97
5 Business drivers: The real reasons for implementing E-learning	99
6 E-learning strategy: Dramatically improve your chance of success	112
Part III Implementation	135
7 The project team: Who you need ... what they do...	137
8 Infrastructure: Denial isn't an option	150
9 Vendor relationships: Good partners help you learn and move fast	161
10 Learning management systems: The engines of e-learning	174
11 Testing: Mission-critical, not nice to have	202
Part IV Delivery	219
12 Multi-channel delivery: Leveraging the learning value chain	221
13 Learner support: Learning with the aid of a safety net	231
14 Developing curricula: Signposted paths to performance improvement	236
15 E-learning standards: Protecting investment and leveraging technology	243

---

16	Instructional design: Must try harder	253
17	The content development process: Managing e-learning's payload	273
Part V	Case Studies	301
18	PwC Consulting case study: Integrating learning and knowledge	303
19	BP case study: Embedding an e-learning capability	322
20	The Royal Bank of Scotland Group case study: Delivering in an immature market	336
21	The Dow Chemical Company case study: High commitment, High ROI, high volume	347
Part VI	Future Directions	355
22	Future directions: Where e-learning is headed	357
Appendix 1	E-learning newsletters	364
Appendix 2	Online resources	367
Appendix 3	Glossary	374
Index		389