

The
ACTION RESEARCH
DISSERTATION

A Guide for Students and Faculty

Kathryn Herr
Gary L. Anderson

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Foreword	xi
Patricia Maguire
Preface	xv
1. Introduction: What Is an Action Research Dissertation?	1
The Many Faces of Action Research	2
Toward a Definition of Action Research	3
The Action Research Dissertation	6
2. Action Research Traditions and Knowledge Interests	8
The Multiple Traditions of Action Research	10
Action Research and Organizational Development/Learning	11
Action Science	13
Participatory Research: The Legacy of Paulo Freire	15
Participatory Evaluation	17
Action Research in Education	17
The Teacher-as-Researcher Movement in Britain	19
The Practitioner Research Movement in North America	21
The Danger of Co-optation	23
Action Research as Self-Study and Autoethnography	24
Emerging Approaches to Action Research	25
The Knowledge Interests of Action Research	26
3. The Continuum of Positionality in Action Research	29
Insider: Researcher studies own self/practice	32
Insider in Collaboration With Other Insiders	36
Insider(s) in Collaboration With Outsider(s)	37
PAR: Reciprocal Collaboration (Insider-Outsider Teams)	38
PAR: Outsider(s) in Collaboration With Insider(s)	38
Outsider(s) Studies Insider(s)	41

Multiple Positionalities	43
The Outsider-Within Stance as a Flawed Approach to Action Research	46
Conclusion	48
4. Quality Criteria for Action Research: An Ongoing Conversation	49
Delegitimizing Action Research: Opposition in the Academy	52
Redefining Rigor: Criteria of Quality for Action Research	53
Reason and Bradbury's Discussion of Validity and Choice Points	57
Addressing Bias in Action Research	60
Are the Findings of Action Research Generalizable?	61
The Politics of Action Research	64
Institutional Micropolitics	65
The Politics of Redefining Professionalism	66
The Politics of Knowledge	67
The Macropolitics of Action Research Projects	67
5. Designing the Plane While Flying it: Proposing and Doing the Dissertation	69
The Dissertation Proposal	70
Where Do Action Research Questions Come From?	72
Insider Action Research	72
Outsider Action Research	75
Issues of Design and Methodology	76
Designing Insider Action Research	78
Designing Outsider Action Research	82
The Literature Review: Literature in Dialogue With the Data	84
Writing the Dissertation	85
Defending the Dissertation	87
6. What Does an Action Research Dissertation Look Like?	89
Lynne Mock: Carving a Dissertation out of a Participatory Action Research Project	90
The Entry Process	92
Creating Participatory Structures	93
Writing the Dissertation	96
Emphasizing the Strengths of Action Research	98
Alice McIntyre: Initiating a Participatory Action Research Group	100
Publishing From PAR Dissertations	104
John Mark Dyke: Insider Action Research	105
First Phase of the Work	106

Iterative Cycles of Inquiry	107
The Dissertation Research—A Work in Progress	109
Conclusion	110
7. Action Research, Ethics, and the Institutional Review Board	112
Background to the Creation of the IRB	113
The Belmont Report	114
The Role of the IRB	117
IRBs and Action Research	117
The Charge for IRBs	124
8. Final Thoughts	127
Appendix	129
Notes	131
References	133
Index	147
About the Authors	157