

Concept Research in Food Product Design and Development

Howard R. Moskowitz
Sebastiano Porretta
Matthias Silcher

Blackwell
Publishing

Table of Contents

How the Book Was Born—Sebastiano's Tale	ix
Preface	xi
1 The Business Environment and the Role of Concept Research in that Environment	3
Part I Nuts and Bolts, Raw Materials, and Ratings	19
2 Single Benefits Screening (Promise Testing) and More Complex Concept Testing	21
3 Ideation Strategies and Their Deployment in Concept Development	37
4 From Questions and Scales to Respondents and Field Execution	53
Part II Experimental Designs, Graphics, Segments, and Markets	75
5 Systematic Variation of Concept Elements and the Conjoint-analysis Approach	77
6 Concepts as Combinations of Graphics	105
7 Segmentation Approaches, Results, and the Differential Importance of Categories	123
8 International Research and Transnational Segmentation Chapter written with the help of Bert Krieger	143
Part III Advanced Analytics	159
9 Believing the Results: Reliability and Validity	161
10 Response Time as a Dependent Variable in Concept Research	175
11 Children Compared with Adults	187
12 Pricing Issues in Early-stage Concept Research	197
13 Analyzing a Study: Casual-dining Restaurant	211
14 Creating Products from Concepts and Vice Versa	229
15 Exploratory Modeling and Mapping, Simulating New Combinations, and Data Mining	247

Part IV Putting the Approaches to Work	281
16 Developing from the Ground Up: Self-authoring Systems for Text and Package Concepts Chapter written with Alex Gofman	283
17 Deconstruction and Competitive Intelligence	323
18 Bottom-up Innovation: Creating Product Concepts from First Principles Chapter written with the help of Roberto Cappuccio	343
19 Creating a Cyberspace Innovation Machine Chapter written with the help of Laurent Flores and Andrea Maier	369
Part V Databasing	407
20 Creating an Integrated Database from Concept Research: The It! Studies Chapter written with the help of Hollis Ashman and Jacqueline Beckley	409
21 Highlights and Insights from the It! Studies: Crave It! and Eurocrave Chapter written with the help of Tracy Luckow	431
22 Highlights and Insights from the Drink It! Study Chapter written with the help of Angus Hughson	447
23 Understanding Brand Names in Concepts	471
24 Emotion in Concepts Chapter written with the help of Hollis Ashman	497
Part VI The Grand Overview	513
25 Concept Development and the Consumer-insights Business Chapter written with the help of Jeffrey Ewald	515
26 Scientific and Business Realpolitik: Insights from Selling New Ideas for Concept Research	537
27 Two Views of the Future: Structured Informatics and Research Unbound	561
Index	577