

SECOND EDITION

Qualitative Research for the Information Professional

A Practical Handbook

G. E. Gorman and Peter Clayton

Contents

Tables, figures and research scenarios xi

About the authors xiii

Preface to the second edition xv

Key features of the second edition xv

Terminology xvi

Overview of the chapters xvii

Acknowledgements xx

Note xxi

1 The nature of qualitative research 1

Focus questions 1

What is qualitative research? 1

What are the distinctive features of qualitative research? 4

How does qualitative research differ from quantitative research? 8

The value of mixed methods 12

How can qualitative research contribute to information work? 13

Review of Chapter 1 16

Where to now? 17

Further reading 17

Notes 18

2 Evaluating qualitative research 20

Focus questions 20

The importance of evaluation 20

Criteria for evaluating research 21

Assessment criteria for qualitative research 22

Evaluating qualitative research 24

Critical evaluation of published studies 27

Applying the lessons of evaluation to one's own research 31

Review of Chapter 2 31

Where to now? 31

Further reading 32

Notes 33

- 3 Qualitative research design in information organizations 34
Focus questions 34
The qualitative research process in information settings 34
First questions 39
Four methods of qualitative investigation 40
Ethical considerations 43
Review of Chapter 3 45
Where to now? 45
Further reading 45
Notes 46
- 4 Case studies in information organizations 47
Focus questions 47
The case study approach 47
Reliability and validity 54
Review of Chapter 4 61
Where to now? 61
Further reading 61
Notes 62
- 5 Laying the foundations for fieldwork 64
Focus questions 64
Overview of fieldwork in information organizations 64
Stage 1: laying the foundations 67
Step 1: considering the focus and choosing a topic 67
Step 2: describing the problem and formulating research questions 70
Step 3: reviewing the relevant literature 72
Step 4: establishing a theoretical framework 74
Review of Chapter 5 77
Where to now? 77
Further reading 78
Notes 78
- 6 Beginning fieldwork 80
Focus questions 80
Stage 2: broad exploration 80
Step 5: selecting locations and subjects 81
Step 6: formulating a research plan 93
Review of Chapter 6 100
Where to now? 100
Further reading 100
Notes 101

7 Observation 103

- Focus questions 103
- Stage 3: focused activity 103
- Two types of observation 103
- Why choose observation? 104
- Characteristics of observation in information settings 105
- The observation process in information settings 112
- Making observations in information settings 117
- Review of Chapter 7 121
- Where to now? 121
- Further reading 122
- Notes 123

8 Interviewing 125

- Focus questions 125
- Why interview? 125
- Types of interview 127
- Characteristics of interviewing in information settings 127
- The interview process 133
- Recording interview data 136
- Review of Chapter 8 140
- Where to now? 140
- Further reading 140
- Notes 141

9 Group discussion techniques 143

- Focus questions 143
- Group processes in organizations 143
- Focus groups in information settings 144
- The nominal group technique in information settings 149
- Review of Chapter 9 156
- Where to now? 157
- Further reading 157
- Notes 158

10 Historical investigation 160

- Sydney J. Shep*
- Focus questions 160
- Why historical investigation? 160
- Characteristics of historical investigation 162
- Identifying and locating historical sources 163
- Using the sources 167
- Recording the sources 169
- Interpreting historical information 173

Writing history and integrating historical and other qualitative data	175
Review of Chapter 10	178
Where to now?	178
Further reading	178
Notes	179
11 Recording fieldwork data	182
Focus questions	182
Overview of data recording	182
Field notes and note-taking techniques	184
Error and bias in note taking	190
Data recording in participant observation	192
Data recording in interviews	194
Data recording in focus groups	195
The expansion of field notes	196
Review of Chapter 11	200
Where to now?	201
Further reading	201
Notes	201
12 Analysing qualitative data from information organizations	204
Focus questions	204
Overview of data analysis	205
Preliminary data analysis	206
Detailed data analysis	210
Using computers for qualitative data analysis	219
Review of Chapter 12	224
Where to now?	224
Further reading	225
Notes	225
13 Writing qualitative research reports	228
Focus questions	228
The writing process	228
Structure in qualitative research reports	232
Styles of writing in qualitative research	236
Readers of qualitative research	240
Writing for publication	242
Review of Chapter 13	244
Where to now?	244
Further reading	245
Notes	245

14 Human resources in knowledge management: a case study 247

Introduction 247

Method 247

KMP and knowledge management 248

Recruitment 249

Training and development 250

Organizational culture 251

The role of IT 253

Conclusions 254

Acknowledgements 255

Notes 255

Select bibliography 257

Adela Clayton

Theoretical contributions 257

Particular methodologies and issues 263

Examples of qualitative research 269

Index 275